Newly-elected Members Take Oath of Office, Are Designated Their Seats

2500 BILLS ON HAND

Lawmakers Hope to Complete First Period of Session Within Two Weeks

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 7.—(UP)—The California state legislature convened at noon here today for its 48th biennial session. Shortly after 12 o'clock Speaker Edgar C. Lewis of the assembly and Lieutenant Governor H. L. Carnahan, president of the senate, swung their gavels to set the legislative machinery in motion.

Both chambers were crowded to capacity with spectators. Wives and women friends of the members were granted seats on the floor for the day. Gay hats and bright dresses of women visitors lent verve to the occasion. The desk of Assemblywoman Eleanor Miller of Pasadena, the only woman member of the legislature, was piled high with flowers.

After the houses were called to order the Rev. Bryant Wilson of Sacramento delivered the benediction before the senate, while the Rev. William H. Hermitage of Sacramento asked divine guidance in the assembly.

Newly-elected members took their oaths of office and were seated. Each house went through its customary routine of completing an organization, appointing committees to notify each other and Governor Young that the legislature was in session.

Reports of contingent expenses committees were adopted, repaying legislators for the money they spent in railroad fare to Sacramento.

Governor Young's biennial message, in which he recited the developments of the state government for the last two years, and disclosed his plans for further reorganization, was the feature of the opening day.

Despite the movement led by Senator Herbert Y. Slater of Santa Rosa, to make this the "Legislature of the Fewest Laws," it was estimated that 2500 bills will be introduced.

Unless unforeseen difficulties occur, the lawmakers hope to end the present session in two weeks, as recommended by Governor Young.

An average of 2500 measures per session has been the legislature's record since 1905. In 1913 the high peak was reached when 3922 laws were introduced. Last year a total of 2191 measures found their way into the hopper, of which 1101 were passed and 989 finally became laws.

GOV. C. C. YOUNG DELIVERS HIS FIRST BIENNIAL MESSAGE TO STATE LEGISLATURE AT NOON

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 7.—Stressing its careful "long-time planning of public policies" as the outstanding achievement of the present state government, Governor C. C. Young today accounted for his two-year stewardship over the governmental affairs of California in his first biennial message to the legislature.

In a document bristling with facts and pungent utterances, Governor Young reviewed at length the activities and accomplishments of the various departments of the government, making it plain that he regards it of paramount importance that every state activity be planned with an eye to the future.

"The present period of our governmental history is marked by long-time planning of public policies," the message said. "We can be satisfied no longer to legislate and govern for the current biennium alone. Failure to estimate the development which will take place within our state in the next generation and provide for it by legislation in advance, means that the government will soon be out of step with the progress of industry, labor and commerce. The progressive achievements of the past twenty years will not be sufficient for the changing needs of the twenty years ahead."

Careful foundations have been laid in the past two years, to provide the opportunity for the scanning of future needs, the governor said, referring to the fact that a ten-year building program for all state institutions has been planned, that the highway program has been mapped out on the "pay-as-you-go" plan over a long period of years instead of upon the costly bond basis, and that a surplus is being built up in the general fund that probably will amount to almost $30,000,000 by the end of the present biennium.

Equitable Taxation

In harmony with this principle, the report of the State Tax Commission will be framed "not in terms of revenue of today but in terms of equitable taxation for years to come."

Not satisfied with the old idea of studying building needs of a single institution or groups of them for a single biennium, the governor said, the state has made a scientific study of the housing requirements of hospitals, homes, prisons, schools, etc., so that the budget needs for such purposes can be forecast accurately for a ten-year period. The orderly construction of highways is paying big dividends already, the governor declared he had been advised that the "pay-as-you-go" method will produce a saving of $24,000,000 in the next biennium alone, compared with the old bond issue method.

Nor are the great humanitarian principles for which the progressive movement in California stands to be sacrificed for the material things. And in this connection, the governor added:

"The demands of society, that we turn our attention to the great questions which affect us from the humanitarian as well as from an economic standpoint, have been met by the long-time planning of the Commission on Children's Problems, the Crime Commission and the Committee on Institutions for Women Offenders."

Referring to the state's finances, Governor Young promised to submit a budget that will show every dollar of state expenditure, whether paid out directly by the state itself, or indirectly, through the agency of the counties.

And, aside from the fixed charges and unescapable expenditures for highways and education, he declared the percentage of increase in this biennium over the last is considerably less than the percentage of population increase during the same period, and is probably the smallest in the history of the state.

Warns Solons

Governor Young warned the legislature that "long-time planning" will be impossible unless constant tampering with the constitution ceases; that this document must

REAPPORTIONMENT ACTION PLANNED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—(UP)—Reapportionment legislation will be given the right-of-way on the floor of the house January 10, the house steering committee decided today.

A majority of the members of the committee attended the conference today and agreed a special rule should be reported to make immediate action on the legislation possible.

GANGSTERS OF CHICAGO ARE TAKEN IN RAID

Entire Police Force Caught At Chicago Heights and Placed in Jail

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—(UP)—Chicago Heights, built by steel and demoralized by alcohol, awoke today to find its leading gangsters in jail, its police department under fire and its entire local government temporarily dispossessed by a combination of federal and county authorities.

In the most spectacular raid in the history of Illinois, the town of 25,000 inhabitants, birthplace of gangland and scene of scores of gang murders, was virtually snatched by 12 squads of Chicago police and 100 federal agents who swept through its business and residential district seeking the fountain heads of vice and crime which have made the suburb more notorious than Cicero.

The 24 men seized in the raid had been marked for arrest by government agents and by Chicago detectives. They included Oliver J. Ellis, alleged payoff man for a liquor and slot machine syndicate which controlled millions of dollars in gambling concessions in the steel town. There were racketeers and beer chieftains said to be underlings of "Scarface Al" Capone, lord of Chicago's gangland, whose virtual rule of Chicago Heights has existed since abdication of the notorious Johnny Torrio.

Deputy Commissioner of Police John Stege said the raiders had seized most of the would aid in the solution of several of 62 murders which have occurred in Chicago Heights since it became the hub of the alcohol war.

The raid was a complete surprise to residents of the city as well as its law enforcing agencies. The raiders gathered at dawn in the southside of Chicago. Warrants, based on evidence secured over a month's investigation by federal agents, were distributed and the procession started for its first objective—the Chicago Heights police station.

There Stege demanded the keys for the city hall and the jail. Chicago Heights Police Chief, John Costabile, objected and with his desk sergeant he was shoved into a cell. One by one as they reported on their beats or at the station, the entire city police force was seized.

20 LOSE LIVES IN COAST ACCIDENTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7.—(UP)—Lives of 20 persons on the Pacific coast were claimed in accidents over the week-end, according to reports to the United Press today.

In California, automobile accidents took a toll of eight lives; five persons were asphyxiated and four others died in a variety of accidents.

Washington reported one person burned to death and one killed in an automobile accident while Oregon had but one tragedy, a suffocation.

BANK EMPLOYE DISAPPEARS ON WAY TO WORK IN SANTA ANA

Police in three Orange county cities were this afternoon searching for Anthony Kneip, 18-year-old bookkeeper in the Santa Ana Bank of Italy who disappeared this morning while on his way to work from his uncle's home in Anaheim.

A telephone call to the bank this afternoon to the effect that Kneip had been injured and had been given medical aid at the Los Angeles general hospital, was being checked by officers.

A call at 8:40 a. m. today, from Los Angeles, to the bank, was to the effect that the youth had been hurt and was in the hospital. R. C. Raddant, of the Bank of Italy, spent the entire morning attempting to check the call and verify the accident report, but was unable to do so, he said. This afternoon when the second call came, he felt relieved regarding the boy's disappearance but at press time this afternoon, young Kneip had not been located.

Raddant stated that he was at a loss to understand why the youth should be in the general hospital in Los Angeles, if he was injured while on his way from Anaheim to Santa Ana to work this morning. Kneip left his home in Anaheim at 7:40 a. m., this morning, it was learned.

Kneip also has a home in Los Angeles, it was said, and may have gone there instead of starting to Santa Ana this morning. He has been connected with the local banking institution since last February, it was said.

Local police notified officers in Anaheim and Fullerton of the case this afternoon and asked that they aid in the search for the boy.

Perfect Pupil Graduated At Stanford

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Jan. 7.—(UP)—Arthur F. Scotten, of Pasadena, today held the unofficial title of "the perfect student."

Scotten was graduated from Stanford Saturday with an average of "A" for his 11 quarters of work in the university.

University records show he is the first student to attain such a high average. Scotten received his A. B. in the department of classical literature.

For two years he has been a member of the varsity fencing squad.

HOOVER MEETS PRESIDENT TO MAKE REPORT

President-Elect Has Half Hour Conference—Busy Week Is Ahead

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—(UP)—President-Elect Hoover called on President Coolidge today and held a half hour conference. The pair posed later for photographers on the steps of the executive offices. Hoover declined to reveal the nature of the conference and when pressed for information said:

"You will have to go to the fountain of news," nodding toward the president's private office.

The white house announced later that the president and Mr. Hoover had discussed the latter's tour to South America.

The chief executive was represented as feeling that the good will engendered by the president-elect's visit was reflected in the success of the Pan-American conference which ended here Saturday.

The first of official friends, political lieutenants and congressional leaders will begin their march toward the temporary headquarters of the next president today, attempting to find out just what is in the mind of this man whose many have found a bit mysterious and inscrutable as to his cabinet, administration plans, and his handling of major issues such as farm relief and prohibition.

Hoover probably has thought much of these matters on the long sea voyage from Rio De Janeiro, and may perhaps have some significant things to say about them in his few days here.

Hoover, it was understood, will also clear up today any misunderstanding regarding his interview with President Irigoyen of Argentina, a published account of which in a Buenos Aires newspaper was interpreted as criticism of President Coolidge's Nicaraguan policy.

Hoover returned to the capital quietly yesterday afternoon, without ceremony. Characteristically, he threaded his way quickly through a small crowd at union station, with head lowered, pausing only a few moments after he stepped from his special train to shake hands with Dr. Hubert V. Brown, chairman of the Republican national committee, who headed

18 PAROLES GIVEN BY PRISON BOARD

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., Jan. 7.—(UP)—The state prison board, meeting here Sunday, disposed of 105 cases.

Eighteen paroles were granted and 66 applications for release on parole denied.

Mrs. Bessie Nelson, of Los Angeles, sentenced to serve from one to three years for burning insured property, was given an immediate parole.

Sentence of Mrs. Anita Ornelas, Santa Barbara, convicted of manslaughter, was fixed at five years.

The board decided to hear six applications for parole at a later date and at that time to consider the fixing of sentence of 11 cases.

Declare Man Defied State Housing Law

Police Break Down Door, And Find Aged Woman On Cot with Food

ALLEGED to have locked his 80-year-old mother up in the "hole-in-the-wall" cigar store at 310 Bush street, for two days, Franklin Sparrow, 58, proprietor of the store, was arrested Saturday afternoon and is being held on a charge of violation of the state housing law.

In Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning he pleaded not guilty to the charge, which merely makes it a violation to have improper ventilation in the place, and his preliminary examination set for January 11, at 9 a. m.

Police, tipped off that the woman was locked up in the place, without sanitary conveniences, found the door padlocked from the outside. They broke the lock and took the woman to a relative's home where she is being kept at the present time.

A cot was found in the rear of the store, together with food for the woman, but the son had been gone for two days it was said. When he returned yesterday afternoon, he was placed under arrest by E. E. Frisby, of the county health department, which had been appealed to by the police and from which a warrant had been issued. Officers Smithwick and Perry also were credited with the arrest.

BOB SHULER CASE CONTINUED BY COURT

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—(UP)—Rev. R. P. "Fighting Bob" Shuler today was given until January 11 to prepare a plea to a charge of criminal libel preferred against him by Grant V. Jenkins, commander of the fourth degree, Knights of Columbus.

The Rev. Mr. Shuler asked for a continuance when he appeared in the packed courtroom of Municipal Judge Thomas Reed for arraignment on the charge. He was released on his own recognizance.

In the complaint, the Rev. Mr. Shuler was charged with publishing alleged untrue and malicious statements against the fourth degree members of the Knights of Columbus, under the heading of "The Famous Fourth Degree Oath."

FILM ACTRESS AND CAMERAMAN MARRY

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 7.—(UP)—Lina Basquette, screen actress and former Ziegfeld follies dancer, and Ferverell Marley, chief cameraman for Cecil B. DeMille, were married today in All Saints church, Beverly Hills.

June Collyer, who with Miss Basquette was one of 1928 Van pus stars, was bridesmaid, and Arthur Edison, colleague of Marley, was best man. Miss Basquette was given in marriage by her stepfather, Ernest Belcher.

The bride is the widow of the late Sam Warner, motion picture producer.

Change Of Venue May Be Demanded In Northcott Case

RIVERSIDE, Jan. 7.—(UP)—Unless women are included in the jury which will try Gordon Stewart Northcott for the revolting murder of three Southern California boys, his counsel will move for change of venue to another county, it was indicated today.

When court resumed after an adjournment since Friday, Norbert Savay, chief counsel, said that he would "exhaust every jury panel" in his effort to have a mixed group in the box when testimony begins.

Falling to seat women jurors, he will ask for a change of venue by claiming that his client cannot have a fair trial because of prejudice.

There were 30 new prospective jurors available today to replenish the original panel, composed entirely of men, which the defense has striven to eliminate.

READJUSTMENT OF TARIFF IS BEFORE HOUSE

Negotiations Seeking End To Kellogg Pact Dispute Bring No Results

By HERBERT LITTLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Congress today started the arduous job of "readjusting" the tariff, with the opening of seven weeks of hearings before the house ways and means committee.

The American chemical manufacturing industry, claiming to represent $5,000,000,000 of capital, was the first petitioner, its spokesman pleading for an increase of 25 to 40 percent import duty on unclassified chemicals.

Chairman Hawley of the committee made a short statement outlining procedure, emphasizing the hearings were on "propositions to readjust" tariff schedules and the taking of testimony on chemical schedules.

First of the 15 classifications were discussed by Salmon Wilder, Boston, chairman of the U. S. Manufacturing Chemists' association. Chemicals have been allotted three days.

Wilder praised the 1922 protective tariff act and asserted the experience of several years has shown some rates are inadequate. He cited wages in the Belgian and German chemical industries which were much lower than American rates. "The tariff should insure a command of the whole market by home industries," he said.

The association also endorsed a proposed anti-dumping law, to provide an embargo on foreign goods found to be competing unfairly with American goods.

Negotiations seeking to end the senate's hot dispute over the Kellogg anti-treaty with a compromise undertaken by senate leaders over the week-end, accomplished nothing, and the numerically small but high powered opposition took up the cudgel against the pact again today.

The compromise solution was offered by Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, now practicing to become senate leader after March 4. He got the opposing leaders together and proposed the reservationists embody in the Roosevelt resolution, explicitly exempting traditional American foreign politics from the treaty, be written into an official report by the foreign relations committee. In return for such a report he expected the opposition to abandon its resolution.

Chairman Borah, who is championing the treaty, was agreeable enough to such a course "if it would speed up a vote on the treaty," he said. But Senators

35 RESCUED WHEN GERMAN SHIP SINKS

BOSTON, Jan. 7.—(UP)—About 35 seamen were rescued last night when the German steamer Rodheim sank off Cape Race, according to radio advices received today by Rogers & Webb, steamship agents.

The radio reports stated that the crew of the vessel was safe aboard the American-Scandinavian liner Saguache, which is due to arrive at Portland, Me., Wednesday.

ARMY PLANE FORCED TO COME DOWN

Develops Engine Trouble at 2 o'Clock Today; Makes Perfect Landing Easily

GASOLINE IS DUMPED

Crew Members Experience No Ill Effects from Long Stay—Up 151 Hours

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—(UP)—The epoch making flight of the army endurance plane Question Mark ended here today shortly after 2:10 p. m. when it was forced down by motor trouble.

The Question Mark had been in the air in continuous flight almost 152 hours when it finally was forced down. One motor was entirely gone and the ship was unable to keep altitude.

When Major Spatz found that the Question Mark could no longer be kept in the air he ordered the gasoline dumped and a landing attempted.

The gas dropped into the air and the Question Mark started a long glide which brought it into Van Nuys airport, from where it took off Tuesday morning at 7:24 a. m.

The glide started at 2000 feet. The landing was perfect. Several hundred people immediately surrounded the plane and newspaper photographers pushed forward to get pictures of the five members of the crew.

The official landing time was announced at 2:07:01.

Since the Question Mark took the air at 7:26:45 a. m., Tuesday, it was only 19 minutes and 44 seconds short of 152 hours of consecutive flight.

This mark officially establishes an all-time record for sustained flight for every type of aircraft.

The members of the crew, Major Carl Spatz, Lt. Quessada and Halverson, Captain Eaker and Sgt. Hooe, showed few ill effects of the long ride.

The roar of motors in their ears for more than six days had temporarily deprived them of hearing but they smoked and attempted to chat with army officials.

All except Major Spatz were covered with whiskers accumulated since the beginning of the flight. Major Spatz shaved yesterday.

In addition to the left motor which had stopped functioning entirely it was learned shortly after the landing that the right motor had started to shoot oil and lose power.

With two motors practically useless, the heavy plane could not maintain its place in the air.

Just for such an emergency, Major Spatz yesterday passed out orders that at no time would the Question Mark venture so far from the Van Nuys field that it could not reach it in a glide.

To make the records official, the N. A. A. demanded that the flight end at the point of take-off.

That the Question Mark was in imminent danger of ending its flight was forecast more than an hour before it came down.

After passing only 15 gallons of fuel a supply ship was waived away by the Question Mark shortly before 1 p. m.

The refueler had carried 130 gallons of gasoline for transfer.

CHAPMAN BECOMES SUPERVISOR TODAY

C. H. Chapman, of Santa Ana, became a county supervisor at noon today, succeeding Col. S. H. Finley, who had held the office for many years but who was not a candidate for re-election.

Chapman will attend his first session tomorrow when the board convenes at 10 a. m. Reorganization, which follows a general election, is scheduled for the outstanding feature of the meeting. Selection of a chairman and appointment of committees, with naming of a number of appointive employees is expected to take place.

Date Of School Bond Vote May Be Set Tuesday Night

FEBRUARY SEEN AS BEST TIME FOR ELECTION

That the Santa Ana board of education probably will take definite action at its meeting, tomorrow night, on the elementary school housing situation was declared today by Dr. John Ball, president. Taking care of the needs as they exist today would require approximately $500,000, it is estimated.

Consideration of the problem at previous meetings of the board has brought out the opinion that February is the most logical time for a possible bond election.

Present requirements in the elementary schools of the city cannot be met satisfactorily by the present facilities for any continued length of time and it is agreed that the city's growth in the past and future make it absolutely necessary that new buildings be provided. In many of the schools emergency space has been provided in libraries, offices and small buildings which have been pressed into use.

Just what form the board's possible action might take was not indicated today and Dr. Ball pointed out that the body has not worked out a formal and definite program. It is regarded as probable, however, that the elementary school project will be the only one to be considered tomorrow night. Although the needs in the high schools and junior college are admitted to be serious, legal complications at present make it inadvisable to take action on that matter, it is said.

With the Newport harbor area attempting to get a bill through the legislature to provide for separation from the Santa Ana high school district, it has been thought advisable to postpone high school district action until this matter is settled.

The possibility of a strictly elementary bond election being well received at this time is believed to be good. Some of the conditions which reacted against the project at the election held last June would not be present in an elementary proposition at this time, it is pointed out. In addition to this fact, the large increase in attendance at the city's schools since June has revealed more strikingly the need for increased facilities.

READJUSTMENT OF TARIFF IS BEFORE HOUSE

Reed of Missouri and Moses of New Hampshire, the opposition leaders, frowned on the scheme. They asked more time to think it over.

The report proposed by Watson would embody statements that the Monroe Doctrine, as an essential part of American self defense, would not in any way be affected by the treaty.

If the agreement can be effected the treaty can be ratified without further argument and the senate can turn its attention to the naval cruiser building bill. If not, the debate may drag on indefinitely.

While this matter was occupying the attention of the leaders, the rest of the senate was spending its usual busy Monday. The judiciary committee took up the two resolutions proposing investigation of prohibition to refer them to a subcommittee. A compromise resolution is expected to be drawn by the sub-committee authorizing President-elect Hoover to appoint an investigating commission of nine members in accordance with the promise he made during the recent campaign.

The house wrestled with the first deficiency and the war department appropriation bills.

be studied as a whole in the light of existing conditions. He said he would ask consideration of a measure that would provide for a "far-sighted study of our need of constitutional revision."

He also indicated his belief in the need of a plan for modernizing California's general system of county government "to the end that the people may enjoy a larger measure of local control over local government." This, he implied, is in keeping with the "long-time planning" program of the state.

Governor Young reported that the departmentalizing of the state's activities had aided greatly the economical and efficient conduct of the state's business by eliminating a useless duplication of effort. He recommended legislation for a further correlation and co-ordination of various activities of the government. This legislation, he said, will serve not only to further the program of "long-time planning," but also will effect many economies.

The Governor urged the legislature to keep the number of bills introduced to the minimum and to avoid legislation drawn carelessly and hastily.

"I am confident," he said, "that from this time on, we may expect fewer measures, an absence of the so-called skeleton bills, and far more orderly and less hurried sessions than we have experienced hitherto."

Work Is Reviewed

The activities of more than a score of departments, boards and commissions were reviewed in the message by Governor Young. Following are among the most important of his recommendations to the legislature:

A sympathetic program of legislation for the farmer designed particularly to aid him to market his crops and to fight unscrupulous operators.

Strengthening of quarantine regulations for pest control and of fruit and vegetable standardization laws.

Support of the proposal to establish a giant refrigerator warehouse and dock for perishable products at the San Francisco harbor.

A re-adjustment program that will permit the state to withdraw from land settlement projects on a basis fair to the state and to the settler.

Legislation for a third bond issue to provide additional funds for

About two o'clock Major Spatz dropped a note saying because of motor trouble the craft could not keep altitude with a heavy supply of gas and that thereafter only 50 gallons would be taken on at each refueling.

A supply ship was in the air with the ordered 50 gallons when the ship lost altitude from 4000 to 2000 feet and Major Spatz ordered that a glide be made to the airport.

The ship, under the careful hand of Captain Baker, chief pilot, came in nicely and landed without trouble directly on the runway and in front of the office occupied for the last week by the N. A. A. officials.

Army officials ordered that immediately after the photographs were taken that the five flyers be taken to a downtown Los Angeles hotel.

Army authorities naturally were elated with the record set by the ship.

It remained in the air almost exactly 34 hours longer than the Dixmude, a lighter-than-air craft, which previously held the world's sustained flight record.

The center motor, upon examination, was found to still be in good running condition, despite the tremendous grind it had undergone.

Major Spatz first words were directed to Lt. Moon, head of refueling ship number 2.

"Hello, there, you damn twin," Major Spatz said. "You need a shave as bad as us."

Post says you beat all others 12 minutes on landing Question Mark. Congratulations.

The ground crew's yelled "ice cream" loud enough for Lt. Quesada to understand. Throughout the long flight Quesada kept calling for ice cream with every meal.

An orderly came dashing into the group with a dress suit for Sgt. Hoee, who furnished the comedy relief for the crew members.

SPEAKER FOR W. C. T. U.

PLACENTIA, Jan. 7.—Preceding the P. T. A. meeting Tuesday at 3 o'clock, officers will hold a board meeting. The speaker of the afternoon will be Mrs. Matie Gregg, of Whittier, director of child welfare for Southern California of the state W. C. T. U.

A WORD OF COMFORT

Treat a man as though he were a beast, and he is likely to become bestial; show him that you believe that there is a manhood latent within him and he will grow up toward your ideal of him.

Honestly expect men who have been flooded by grief to rise to face life's burdens and difficulties as the sons of God, and they will not disappoint you. Meanwhile, remember in your own hours of sorrow that God and man alike are counting up on you to render a good account of yourself.

SEVERAL S. A. STATIONS MAKE SLASHES TODAY

Santa Ana motorists may benefit by a price war among station owners in this vicinity, it was indicated today when it became known that dealers in Los Angeles were waging such a battle.

It was said that price cutting already had started in Santa Ana in a minor way, the independents offering reductions varying from two to three cents a gallon.

Investigations revealed that the cut is not being made by wholesale distributors and that it merely is an attempt on the part of station owners to develop business.

"The fight is, more or less, the result of too many service stations in operation," declared one dealer today.

"Dealers making cuts to 17 1-2 and 18 1-2 cents a gallon simply are giving away some of their profits," pointed out a wholesaler today, in emphasizing the statement that distributors are not cutting prices to station owners.

GAS WAR ALSO LOOMS IN L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—Possibility of a gasoline "war" among station owners loomed in Los Angeles today with the announcement that several independent stations had cut prices from two to three cents a gallon.

Many operators were selling gas at 17 1-2 and 18 1-2 cents a gallon to motorists. The cut was said to have been made because of increased competition among service station owners.

Stations of major oil companies did not drop rates and will continue to charge 20 1-2 cents a gallon, officials said.

Yorba Linda Oil Worker Injured

YORBA LINDA, Jan. 7.—Murray Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Walker, who has been in the employ of the Standard Oil company for the past six months, was injured Saturday when caught between a truck and a dolly. A gash three inches deep was cut in his left leg and he was severely bruised.

He was given treatment at the Anaheim Clinic and brought to his home.

MEASURES LIGHT

SCHENECTADY, Jan. 7.—A recent invention of Dr. L. R. Koller is a new daylight recorder. It is so sensitive that it will indicate every shade of light intensity from bright sunlight to starlight. It is believed that the mechanism will show, graphically, the difference between metropolitan and urban atmosphere.

Local Briefs

Friends of Marion B. Youel are offering him their congratulations upon his appointment to the district agency for Orange county, of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company of Milwaukee, Wis., succeeding W. B. Moore who is to spend all his time doing field work for the company. Youel received the appointment on January 2, and is now in charge of the offices at 205 East Fourth street. He has had many years' experience in the business, and his appointment was made upon the suggestion of his predecessor, W. B. Moore, through W. K. Murphy, general agent.

According to the Rev. U. E. Harding, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, a capacity audience at last night's services in that church, voted unanimously to send a night letter to the Rev. R. P. ("Fighting Bob") Shuler of Los Angeles, commending him upon his christian integrity, and promising the financial and spiritual support of the Church of the Nazarene. The telegram also expressed disappointment over the cessation of the Rev. Mr. Shuler's radio talks.

Representatives of the Auto Club of Southern California will be here in a few days to consult with City Manager W. G. Knox with reference to marking national highway 101 through this city, it was announced today by Knox, following receipt of a letter from D. C. Rhodes, field engineer.

The Anderson Grocery company will move its store on February 1 from its present location, 115 East Fourth, to 211 East Fourth street, in the room to be vacated by the Preston Radio company when it moves to its location at Broadway and Third.

George Walker, executive secretary of the Boy Scouts, will address the assembly of Julia Lathrop junior high school at 10:15 a. m., tomorrow.

H. P. Harrar, 77, of 2009 North Broadway, passed away in Arkansas City, Kan., this morning, according to a telegram received by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. A. H. Farrar, of Tustin. Mr. and Mrs. Farrar went to Arkansas City to vote at the presidential election and had planned to return to their home here soon. Death was due to pneumonia.

Sullivan Carded Against Francis

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—Charley Sullivan, Bakersfield bantam, has been signed to meet Kid Francis, European champion, in a 10 round main event bout at the Olympic Tuesday night. Sullivan will replace Earl Mastro of Chicago who is ill with influenza.

SLOT MACHINE BATTLE BEFORE BOARD TONIGHT

The city council tonight is scheduled to have another round with the problem of whether slot machines can be legislated out of the city or whether their elimination will have to be made by the imposition of license fees that will make their continued operation unprofitable to the owners.

Charles D. Swanner, city attorney, said today that he was making an investigation of the legal status of the devices in order to be in position to advise the council. The attorney said that his investigations would not be completed until late this afternoon and that he would not express an opinion today.

He has, however, said, without having made close investigation, that he believed the machines had a legal standing and that it would be impossible for the council to draft an ordinance that would prohibit their operation here if the equipment is operated according to original plans.

Delivery of a piece of merchandise with each operation of the machines, in the opinion of some attorneys, gives the devices a legal standing.

Machines operating without returning merchandise, however, are clearly illegal, it is explained.

Globe Trotter Honored At Dinner Party In Kellogg Home

Travel experiences abroad offered the conversational theme for a dinner of much charm presented as a week-end event in the William S. Kellogg home, 2412 Poinsettia street, as a bon voyage compliment to Theo. A. Winblier.

For Mr. Winblier, whose globe-trotting proclivities make him an unusually interesting conversationalist, is to set sail tomorrow upon another voyage that promises interest not only to him as a traveler, but to his friends who are already anticipating his return with a new fund of travel tales. For he is to visit the South Sea Islands on this trip, and will spend at least six months in a succession of interesting places.

Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg had as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Winblier, Dr. and Mrs. E. M. Mills, who are also seasoned travelers, having been abroad a number of times, and Mrs. Iva M. Weber, Mrs. Kellogg's mother. The table where the appetizing dinner was served, was brilliant with sweet peas, and on the nearby buffet was a stately vessel suggesting the ten or a dozen ships upon which the honor guest will sail in completing his chosen itinerary. The evening which followed was a most interesting one, filled as it was with the fascinating tales of those who recognize and yield to the wanderlust.

The Santa Ana traveler will sail from San Francisco for Hawaii, and from there will proceed to the Fiji Islands, Australia, the Philippines, China, Japan and other strangely exotic spots in that section of the globe.

ORANGE

Picnic Party

A number of people of Orange enjoyed a delightful picnic planned recently by Miss Catherine Walker of Tustin, at Orange County park and given in honor of her sisters, Mrs. Lloyd Wilcox and Mrs. Wilcox' two daughters and son of Nebraska who are spending the winter at Long Beach.

Among the guests who were all relatives of the guests of honor, were Mrs. Sadie Walker, the hostess' mother, her niece, Miss Frances Wilcox of Tombstone, Arizona, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Tantlinger and family of Lemon Heights, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Richards of Pomona, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Webster and family, Mrs. Joseph Webster and daughter and Mrs. Maud Warren and two sons, Kenneth and Loren all of Orange.

Watch Party On New Year's Eve Dr. and Mrs. V. A. Wood of 233 North Grand street were hosts at a delightful "watch" party.

Decorations suggested the happy holiday season, carried out by the use of red and green garlands in the living and dining rooms, and a prettily decorated Christmas tree while the glow of many candles added to the beauty of the setting for the happy affair.

Three tables were arranged for bridge, the diversion of the evening. As the merry bells rang out and the old ring in the New Year the hostess served delicious refreshments at the small tables.

Dinner Party

The holiday colors, red and green were attractively used in table decorations when Mrs. Maud Warren entertained a group of friends with a turkey dinner at her home at 233 North Batavia street on Sunday evening.

Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Ed Windolph, son Robert and daughter Mrs. N. H. Dodson of Aledo, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Leo Windolph and small son Douglas of San Juan Capistrano, Miss Emma Wetlin, Roscoe McClure, Leo Wolgamood of Los Angeles, Kenneth and Loren Warren and the hostess, Mrs. Warren.

The evening was spent in pleasant conversation and of unusual interest to the guests gathered in the home were microscopical views of the Yellowstone National Park shown by Mrs. Warren's son.

TRYOUTS ARE UNDER WAY FOR FEBRUARY PLAY

"Her Temporary Husband" has been definitely selected as the third production in the 1928-29 program of Santa Ana Community Players, according to the director, Marian Helm Williams, and the first public try-out for roles in the play, held at the end of the week in The Barn, attracted a dozen or more exceedingly promising amateur actors, who are now being considered by Mrs. Williams.

In her efforts to cast the parts suitably, Mrs. Williams continued the try-outs today in her own home, 2205 North Broadway, and will make a final decision at once. "Her Temporary Husband" is said to be a sparkling comedy in which six roles are of almost equal importance, although the two leads are supposed to be "Tom Burton" and "Blanche Ingram," the latter a typical "clinging vine." Then there is a jovial young doctor and a pretty nurse, very much in love with each other; a broad comedy part in that of "Judd," a hospital attendant, and "Clarence Topping," the villain.

Immediately after parts are assigned, rehearsals will begin in order to have the players letter-perfect for the performance dates of February 7, 8 and 9.

Mexican Woman Held To Answer On Booze Charge

Paula Salazar, Santa Ana Mexican woman, charged with having a whiskey still in her home, was held to answer to the superior court this morning in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court.

A. L. Steward, deputy sheriff, is asserted to have found a still in the woman's house when he was searching the place for a number of blankets reported to have been stolen.

The Salazar woman claimed that the still was left there by parties who lived in the house before she moved in. Bail was fixed at $2000, which she did not make.

HROY, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Indians of the Passamaquaddy tribe at Perry, Me., have ordered a bronze bell to be made by a local foundry for the belfry of their chapel. The new ding-dong replaces one destroyed by a fire a year ago.

TWO INJURED AS AUTO OVERTURNS

T. F. Conway and E. R. Gregory, both of Los Angeles, were slightly injured Saturday afternoon at the intersection of the Villa Park road and Tustin avenue, when the automobile in which they were riding skidded and overturned, according to a report made to the sheriff's office.

According to Gregory, he attempted to avoid striking a small coupe, believed to have been driven by Mrs. Sarah March, and in so doing swung his machine into a ditch at the side of the road.

Neither of the occupants of the machine was badly hurt.

TRAINED WOLVES

CABOLT, Ont., Jan. 6.—Two wolves, trained in Hollywood and imported by Burden Pictures for star roles in a movie being filmed at the mouth of the Kipawa river, are victims to an overwhelming desire for chicken meat and a farmer's shotgun. The animals left their cages at Villa Marie, headed for a nearby chicken yard and were brought to earth by the alert farmer shortly after the raid.

HE LIKED TO DRAW CARDS AND, 'TIS SAID, HIS GUN—NOW IT MAY BE PRISON

Jose Cabrales, 23, of La Habra, liked to draw. Today he drew January 23 as the date for his trial on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill. He pleaded not guilty in Presiding Judge James L. Allen's court.

A year ago Cabrales wanted to draw another card when he lost his stake on a flip of the pasteboard in a poker game, it is said. When Alejandro Diaz, 46, refused to risk his winnings on another draw, Cabrales drew anyway, it is claimed, and then drew his gun.

"You're a hell of a poor loser, aren't you?" Diaz is said to have asked him.

"If you don't like it, take that!" Cabrales is reported to have replied, beginning to shoot. As Diaz dodged about the room, Cabrales emptied his gun and escaped, according to reports. Diaz was left with a bullet above his right eye. Somehow it failed to enter the brain.

That was a year ago and today Cabrales was in court after having been located in Santa Barbara by Orange county officers. Apparently Cabrales was determined to draw and today the new possibility of drawing a prison sentence had entered into his calculations.

GOOD MEAL ONLY 'LOOT' OF TRAMP

A hungry tramp is believed to have been responsible for the burglary of the home of Grover Lewellen, of Olive, yesterday afternoon, according to a report made to the sheriff's office.

The thief helped himself to bread, canned goods, sugar and other eatable. He then went to the hen house and procured several eggs, which he ate in the house, it was reported.

Entrance into the home was made through the front door, which was not locked.

WALKER PLANS TO REORGANIZE SCOUT DISTRICT

Reorganization of the first district of the Boy Scouts is being worked out by George Walker, executive secretary, he announced today. The plan is to give each community in the district representation on the executive committee instead of district representation only, it was explained by the secretary.

The district includes Garden Grove, Westminster, Seal Beach, Huntington Beach, Newport Beach, Costa Mesa, Laguna Beach, San Clemente and Capistrano.

It is the intention of the secretary to hold meetings in each community in the district to present the plan of reorganization and to discuss possibilities of increasing Scout activities in each. The first meeting in the series is to be held in Huntington Beach on January 31, it was announced.

At the round table meeting of Scoutmasters, to be held in the American Legion hall here tomorrow night, discussions will center about the advisability of establishing ranks for troops, similar to that for individuals, in which merit badges are given for performance. The troop schedule would be different, but would follow the general scheme of the individual merit badge work. The secretary said that it is probable a committee will be appointed to formulate details of the plan.

PROGRESS SHOWN IN CREAMERY BUSINESS

TWO WOMEN HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Two women were injured at 4:30 yesterday afternoon one mile south of San Juan Capistrano, when the automobile in which they were riding skidded on the wet pavement and overturned at the side of the road, according to a report filed by State Traffic Officers Adams and Yoder.

The injured were Miss Yetta Davis, 32, 2727 1-2 East Fourth street, and Mrs. Rose Holtz, 23, of 2721 Kinley street, both of Los Angeles. They were riding in a car driven by J. Tuler, of 453 North Alma street, Los Angeles, according to the report.

The student body executives, as well as all class officers and club officials, will terminate their reigns February 1, the end of the first semester. New sets of administrators then will serve until June.

There is some doubt as to who will be nominated for the student body presidency. Vandermast, the incumbent, will be leaving school and will not be eligible to succeed himself.

The present officers of the student body are as follows:

President, Newell Vandermast; vice president, Roger Hearn; secretary, Phyllis O'Connor; commissioner of athletics, Thomas Cone; commissioner of forensics, Jerry Tannenbaum; commissioner of publications, Clarence Speer; commissioner of finance, LeRoy Arnold. Members of the self-government committee are John Keeler, chairman; George Berry and Bruce Tarter, boys' representatives, and Margaret Wilson and Willena Bell, girls' representatives.

S. A. CHILDREN TO BE GUESTS AT ARMY PARTY

Two interesting events are to take place in the Salvation Army hall Tuesday and Wednesday. Tomorrow night, starting at 7 o'clock, the annual program for the children attending the Sunday school will be held. There will be a present for each child. While the affair is planned for the children of the Sunday school, all children of the community will be welcomed. It was announced by Capt. Guy B. Van de Hoek.

Capt. Guy Case will have charge of the program and Colonel Cousins, of San Francisco, attended by his staff, will be present and will speak. Colonel Cousins has been engaged in the work of the Salvation Army for the last 45 years. He will bring a special message to the children.

On Wednesday a council of the officers of the Orange belt division will be held. The council will convene at 10 o'clock in the morning and the afternoon session will open at 2:30. In the evening there is to be a revival meeting, one of the features of which will be a baptism service.

ORCHESTRA IS PREPARING FOR FIRST CONCERT

By RUTH ANDREWS

Regular rehearsals now are being held by the Santa Ana Symphony orchestra in preparation for the opening concert of the organization's winter series. This program, scheduled for Thursday night, January 31, will be presented, under the direction of D. C. Clonfoni, in the Santa Ana high school auditorium.

Formal appearance of the Treble Clef club, women's chorus of 80 voices, directed by Margherita Marsden, will be an additional feature of the orchestra's opening concert. Special numbers programmed by the large choral ensemble include:

1. "The Top of the Morning" (Mania-Zucca); "The Big Brown Bear" (Mania-Zucca); "Medley from the South," arranged by Harry Hale Pike.

2. "Trees" (Rasbach-Harris); "O Irish Hill," arranged by William Lester; "Oh, Didn't It Rain" (Burleigh).

3. "My Rose Ain't White" (Mabel Woodworth); "Will o' the Wisp" (Spross); "Dawn" (Pearl Curran).

Treble Clef members are urged to attend every rehearsal and are especially requested to be present at the regular rehearsal at 7:30 tomorrow night, in the First M. E. church.

Extending an invitation to musicians interested in joining the symphony orchestra. Director Clonfoni this morning stressed the beneficial influence of such ensemble work. He declared that he would be pleased to have anyone interested in joining the organization get in touch with him as soon as possible, this being the time for admission of new members.

Additional associate membership tickets, entitling the holder's entire family to attend the orchestra's concert on January 31, now may be obtained in the Santa Ana Book store.

The only way the vital problem of maintaining the orchestra may be satisfactory met is by more adequate financial support from the members. It would be possible to give much more extensive concert series if there were sufficient funds for necessary expenses.

Although service clubs, concerned over the welfare of the Santa Ana Symphony orchestra, are showing gratifying interest in the work planned for this season, it seems only fair that the general public also should show more sincere appreciation of what the orchestra members have so earnestly endeavored to accomplish toward development of musical culture in Santa Ana throughout a period of five years.

Largely composed of talented young musicians of this community, the Santa Ana Symphony orchestra has put forth so many tireless efforts to present programs of artistic merit during the last five seasons, and has aided so wholeheartedly in stimulating musical interest and promoting high cultural standards in this section, that it certainly deserves the public sincere encouragement and support.

S. A. MAN CHARGED WITH POSSESSION

Charged with possession of liquor, Ramon Castro, of 1805 West Second street, was arrested Saturday night after Officers Perry and Wolford had raided his home and are said to have found a quantity of whiskey and beer.

The liquor was stored in a house at the rear of Castro's home, officers said, and consists of 17-1/2 pints of whiskey and 40 bottles of beer.

Castro was lodged in the county jail, where he awaits a hearing in the city police court.

Charge Rancher With Receiving Stolen Property

Charged with receiving stolen property, Howard Fellows, 27, a rancher residing on route No. 5, Santa Ana, was arrested yesterday by A. L. Steward, deputy sheriff, and is being held in the county jail.

A cedar chest, containing linens valued at $100, found in Fellows' home, was the cause of the arrest, it was said. Steward said the chest was the property of Francisco Garcia, of Seventeenth street and Garden Grove road, who reported it stolen from his home in December. Fellows told the officer, Steward said, that he gave a stranger $7 for the chest and its contents.

BREA

BREA, Jan. 7.—Tobey Shipley, for several years past employed in the White Way barber shop here, has taken a leave of absence from his work and for a time will be employed in the grocery store of Shipley & Brainer. The former member of the firm is his brother.

Plans are going along nicely for the public card party which the Pythian Sisters are giving in their lodge rooms, here Thursday night. They are planning for a large crowd. Both bridge and 500 will be played.

A. work in Northern Orange county, and Miss Faustina Nanno, active also in the work, met at the "cabin" of the Christian church here, Friday night, to practice folk songs and dances which they will present at a district gathering to be held in Fullerton early in February.

Mrs. Charles Harvey was hostess for the evening and, with the assistance of Mrs. Reed, served refreshments at the close of the happy occasion.

Twenty Rebekah lodge members are planning the details of the benefit dinner which they are to serve in the Masonic hall, Wednesday evening, for the local Odd Fellows. The dinner will be served from 5:30 to 7:30 o'clock. The public is invited to attend.

Avoid Dizzy Spells

Never well. Always tired and fagged out. Beauty tossed away by neglect. To be beautiful and to keep youth the system must be free from poisonous backwash of constipation which often causes dizzy spells. For 20 years, Dr. F. M. Edwards gave his patients, in place of calomel, a compound of vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Known by their olive color. They free the system of poisons that ravage health, energy, beauty.

You need never have sallow complexions, dull eyes, coated tongue, throbbing headaches—all signs that your bowels are clogged. Liver is torpid. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly. They act smoothly and without griping. How much better you'll feel and look! Everywhere wise men and women who know the value of good health take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. ## $25,000 DAMAGE SUIT DISMISSED

A $25,000 damage suit, launched against Dr. Edgar Ewing by Paula Garcia, had been dismissed today in superior court here. Dismissal of the action resulted from alleged failure of the plaintiff to prosecute the case.

The plaintiff charged that Dr. Ewing had assaulted her maliciously in his office when she appeared there for treatment in June, 1927. The case originally was filed in Los Angeles county but was transferred to Orange county on December 31 for dismissal of the action, which followed because of failure to prosecute.

AUTO HURTS BASIS OF $12,406 ACTION

Claiming that an automobile driven by C. R. Smith had run into him on August 21, while he was working on a bridge north of San Clemente, Allen E. Robinson today brought suit against Smith for $12,406.85 damages.

Robinson, who is a flagman, said that he was at work on a state highway bridge when Smith's car is asserted to have hit him.

He suffered injuries to his back, hips and legs, according to the complaint, which stated that he has not been able to work since the accident.

Refusal To Take Finger Splints Results In Suit

Wanted, about 750 broken fingers on the Pacific coast.

An epidemic of this kind probably would relieve considerably the situation existing today between W. E. Jackson, of Brea, and A. J. Siebrandt, it is thought.

According to a lawsuit launched today, Jackson agreed to purchase 1000 sets of Siebrandt's Improved Eveready Finger Extension Splints for marketing on the Pacific coast. The price was $5.50 for a set of 10 splints. The complaint stated, between May and August the splint company delivered and received payment for 250 sets, but when the firm delivered 100 finger protectors on August 27, Jackson refused to take them or to receive any more in the future, according to the complaint.

Now A. J. Siebrandt, who claims to have been assigned the alleged claim of the J. R. Siebrandt Manufacturing company, is asking the court to award him $2250 damages against Jackson.

GRANT PROBATION ON CHECK CHARGE

Superior Judge H. G. Ames today granted probation to Elve Garrett, 30, who had pleaded guilty to a charge of issuing a bank check with intent to defraud and had asked leniency.

Garrett is alleged to have given a $15.65 check to John Vilella, which was refused at the bank. While it was pointed out that Garrett was guilty of a technical violation, he is said to have made up the amount of the check. He told the court that he lived in Montebello and that he frequently had come to Laguna Beach in the past. Deputy District Attorney Sam L. Collins did not oppose granting of probation.

Pronouncement of judgment was suspended for one year and Garrett was instructed to remain in Los Angeles and Orange counties. Garrett was represented by D. G. Wetlin, Santa Ana attorney.

Warner Sees Few Changes In Grid Rules Possible

'POP' VISITING HIS BROTHER IN SAN CLEMENTE

Football will undergo but few changes at the hands of the rules committee, "Pop" Warner, famous Stanford coach who is visiting at San Clemente with his brother, Judge Fred S. Warner, and his nephew, Hal Warner, said today.

But one change in the rules looms, "Warner declared, "and that will be legislation making all fumbles dead at the point of recovery."

Warner does not think the goal posts will be moved back to the goal line or that any other radical change will be made.

Hal the proposed legislation been in force Riegels, California center, would not have been acclaimed as the man who made the backward run as famous in football as Paul Riegels' ride was in the Revolution. The ball Riegels picked up would have been dead at the point of recovery. Asked if he did not think the new rule would rob the game of some of its thrill and glamour, "Pop" replied that under the present system teams were made to suffer too much from fumbles and that he thought loss of the ball enough penalty.

Warner had little to say about Riegels' run. He stated that it could happen in most any game and that it was wrong to blame the Bear center for the defeat as he thought Georgia Tech played the type of game that would have won regardless.

In naming the best team of the past season "Pop" said that Georgia Tech with the best record received that questionable honor.

"There may be, and probably are, other teams under the right conditions might have won," said "Pop," "but none did so Georgia Tech can lay claim to having the best record, and best team of the 1928 season."

Speaking of proposed legislation to do away with the games by awarding a point for each first down besides the regular score, Warner wanted it understood that the suggestion was made to start a discussion of a way to eradicate tie games.

"I did not bring the matter before the rules committee nor was it discussed at the football coaches' meeting in New Orleans," he said. "It was made to bring more scientific interest to the game. Out of this discussion may come some way of eliminating tie games, which at best are unsatisfactory to the coaches, players and fans."

When asked about prospects for next year Warner had little to say of a pessimistic nature.

"We lose many valuable men," he explained, "the hardest loss is that which robs us of Post and Robesky, guards, and Sellman, tackle. That means almost a new line. In the backfield we must find men to replace Hoffman, Sims, Wilton and Lewis, not an easy task. Perhaps we suffer the most by graduation."

ERRORS ARE COSTLY AS DONS LOSE, 4-3

SAN CLEMENTE, Jan. 7.—Errors helped Elsinore defeat the San Clemente Dons in a 10-inning game here yesterday, 4 to 3. An error in the second inning with two down gave the visitors two runs and poor headwork and an error assisted Elsinore when it scored two more in the tenth. The Dons after scoring a run in their half of the tenth left poor base work cost them a chance to tie the score.

TROJAN BASKETBALL TEAM TO OPEN CONFERENCE ON FRIDAY

AVIATORS EASY WINNERS OVER L.A. CLUB, 18-9

Westminster had a tough time beating the Los Angeles Blues at its Midway City ball park several weeks ago but the Blues were a pushover for Claude Comford's Aviators yesterday, the score of the free-hitting game being 18 to 9.

The Flyers, composed of Alton and Charles, opposition outmen, all over their opposition, collecting 14 safeties and profiting by the wildness of the two gunners, Scott, Marshall, Wellington, Marten, L. Penhall and Davis all had two base knocks.

Shortstop Blue, leader of the Los Angeles club, and Outfielder Colwell did most of the damage to "Whitney" Marten, Westminster's hurler, making seven of their team's thirteen hits.

Twice in the Army-Stanford football game, "Red" Cagle, the Army's All-American back, took the pass from center and started to run with it. He then reversed his field, ran back in the direction of his own goal and completed a forward pass.

Because the play was staged under identical circumstances and because the same receiver caught the perfect pass for long gains, the Stanford defense thought it was a brilliant play.

Even "Pop" Warner, who can diagram from memory almost any play that ever has been used, said after the game that "Bliff" Jones the Army coach, had given his boys a smart play even if it was very dangerous, if it failed.

BOYER WINS LEG ON LORENZ GOLF TROPHY

C. P. Boyer, who rates officially as only a Class B golfer at the Santa Ana Country club, got "warm" on the home course over the past week-end and won a leg on the Lorenz golf trophy in a match play against par.

In the cup competition, Boyer turned in a card of 87-22-65, which finished him three strokes better than Lew H. Wallace, with 78-10-68. William Rohrbacker was third, with 81-14-70.

COULD PROBABLY LEADER OF S. A. CINDERS SQUAD

Who will captain the 1929 track and field team at Santa Ana high school?

That very important question was to be decided late today when the short-panted squad held its first workout on the Poly track, which is being put into shape for the impending season. The track was in terrible condition but was being dragged and graded to assume fairly level proportions.

Tommy Cone, two-year veteran in the distance races, was a hot bet to get the skipper job. Tommy is small but can cover the 880 and mile in a hurry. He was close to 2 minutes flat in the middle distance race last year and with another year of experience should show the Coast leaguers his heels for fair. Cone is commissioner of athletics and has held various student body offices.

Another possible nominee is Alvin Reboin, hurdler and sprinter. He burned up the track last season and should repeat again, being a junior with another year coming up. Coach Oliver is going to use Reboin in the 100 and 220, as well as both hurdles. He placed in the high sticks in the Southern California interscholastic and was a consistent winner in both hurdle races. He also broad jumps and vaults but is too good in the running races to bother with those events. Tom Donahue, Carl Schenberger and Norman Paul are other lettermen.

The 1928 team covered the school with glory and the embryo stars will have plenty of goals for which to shoot. Any team that can win the Chaffey Invitational, Huntington Beach Invitational, get third in the Coast Preparatory league, meet with a lot of hard luck and run up big scores in all dual meets is good.

Orange county's fervent hopes for an Oil Belt league baseball championship hit a snag yesterday when Wilkins shaded George Hall in a great pitching duel at Long Beach and Art Sullivan's Merchants were blanked by Texaco Oil, 3 to 0. Both pitchers limited their opposition to five blows but Wilkins kept his a wee bit more scattered and received the decision.

Texaco made two in the fifth on a couple of errors, a base on balls and timely base hit and added another in the sixth on two hits.

The hitting and fielding of the two Orange county redheads, Robertson and Jarrett, featured.

The Countians return to the Fair grounds next Sunday, playing George Lackaye's Old Timers in a benefit game at 2:15.

The Old Timers' battle, now almost an institution in the county, will bring together a formidable band of pastimers who would be worth their weight in gold were they in playing condition today. Sam Dungan, "Gavvy" Cravath, Jimmy Austin, Ernie Johnson, Sam Crawford, "Rube" Ellis, Anson Mott, Herb Salveson and a dozen or more other former ball tossers have agreed to take part in the affair from which all receipts will be turned over to the Orange county health camp.

Back in the days when it was legal to drink a beer the New York ball players used to drink beer at the Amsterdam Inn up near the Polo Grounds. . . . There weren't any club detectives at the time and the boys were allowed to stay up late in the garden behind the inn. . . . The kitchen in the inn closed at midnight and when the boys wanted to eat later they had to go elsewhere. . . . They knew a popular little spot on 14th street near Broadway. . . . WASN'T PLAY AT ALL

Twice in the Army-Stanford football game, "Red" Cagle, the Army's All-American back, took the pass from center and started to run with it. He then reversed his field, ran back in the direction of his own goal and completed a forward pass.

Because the play was staged under identical circumstances and because the same receiver caught the perfect pass for long gains, the Stanford defense thought it was a brilliant play.

Even "Pop" Warner, who can diagram from memory almost any play that ever has been used, said after the game that "Bliff" Jones the Army coach, had given his boys a smart play even if it was very dangerous, if it failed.

He didn't remember much about that game, he told his friends in New Orleans. He ran a couple of times with the ball and got away for some long gains, but they were all too busy to think of outside gains.

"The biggest thrill I got out of football was in the Navy game the year before when I got away for a 49-yard run for a touchdown."

TEXACO SHADES ORANGE COUNTY IN MOUND DUEL

Orange county's fervent hopes for an Oil Belt league baseball championship hit a snag yesterday when Wilkins shaded George Hall in a great pitching duel at Long Beach and Art Sullivan's Merchants were blanked by Texaco Oil, 3 to 0. Both pitchers limited their opposition to five blows but Wilkins kept his a wee bit more scattered and received the decision.

Texaco made two in the fifth on a couple of errors, a base on balls and timely base hit and added another in the sixth on two hits.

The hitting and fielding of the two Orange county redheads, Robertson and Jarrett, featured.

The Countians return to the Fair grounds next Sunday, playing George Lackaye's Old Timers in a benefit game at 2:15.

The Old Timers' battle, now almost an institution in the county, will bring together a formidable band of pastimers who would be worth their weight in gold were they in playing condition today. Sam Dungan, "Gavvy" Cravath, Jimmy Austin, Ernie Johnson, Sam Crawford, "Rube" Ellis, Anson Mott, Herb Salveson and a dozen or more other former ball tossers have agreed to take part in the affair from which all receipts will be turned over to the Orange county health camp.

JOHNNY MACK BROWN, DIXIE GRID HERO, LANDED FILM JOB THROUGH LOYALTY TO COLLEGE

By BOB MATHERNE
NEA Service Sports Writer

This is the story of a young halfback of a few seasons ago who passed up a chance to make himself 5000 bucks by playing five games of pro football in order to be on deck if his alma mater landed in a post-season football game they were dicker for. The point is—he passed up the 5000 bucks, played in the post-season football game, and landed in the movies!

Perhaps this story belongs on the sports page, but it is on the sports page because the hero is Johnny Mack Brown who, as the caption writer for "Our Dancing Daughters" wrote, is the greatest halfback the University of Alabama ever had.

Talked Out of It

It isn't exactly news that Mack Brown is in the movies, and has been for some time. Nor is it news that Mary Pickford is going to make a talkie of "Coquette," the stage play which Helen Hayes is taking about the country now after a successful run in New York.

It does seem news, however, to tell how Johnny Mack Brown wanted to make those 5000 bucks and had to be argued out of it because Alabama had a chance to play Washington in the annual Tournament of Roses game in 1929.

The news of "Red" Grange having turned pro wasn't so very odd when Alabama beat Georgia on Thanksgiving day, 1925, and won a consecutive championship game. It had been announced also that Ernie Nevers, Stanford star, was turning pro—for $25,000 for some games down in Florida.

Pro Football Offers

Going back on the train that night to Tuscaloosa, one heard a lot of talk about Alabama's chances to play Washington at Pasadena on New Year's day—and also a lot of talk that some of the Alabama players had received offers to play pro football.

Brown was one of them. He had been offered 1000 bucks per five games to play with Nevers' team.

Brown is not from a rich family. Nor from one which has been dealt with kindly by the fates. There were several young Browns either in or about ready for college, and $5000 looked like an awful lot of money to Mack Brown.

It reached the proportions of looking like as much money as Johnny Mack Brown would be able to earn in at least two years after he was out of college.

Those who rode on the last coach of that football special to Tuscaloosa know that Wallace Wade did a lot of talking to Mack Brown in private that night. Just what all was said isn't known, but it is no secret that Brown was all for wiring acceptance to that offer.

But he didn't—because Alabama needed him if they were to get a chance at Washington on New Year's day.

It is easy for an Alabama alumnus to remember that Alabama beat Washington by a 20-19 score and that two of the touchdowns were made by this gallant Johnny Mack Brown.

Johnny Mack returned to Tuscaloosa. He started to sell insurance when he left college.

Then he coached the freshman backs at Alabama. But there must have been thoughts ever now and then of what he could do with 5000 bucks—if he had it.

Introducing Champ Pickens

One of the characters in this story must be introduced at this time. He is Champ Pickens, known from coast to coast as Alabama's greatest booster, and one of those fellows who know a lot of fellows who can do a good turn now and then.

Pickens would look at nice-looking Johnny Mack Brown and tell him he ought to be in the movies. What may have been horseplay at first began to take firmer root in Pickens' mind and soon the was pulling the strings for Mack Brown to have a film test in Hollywood. And when Alabama went back to Pasadena to play Stanford on New Year's, 1929, Mack Brown was along to see the game and to try and break in the movies.

You know the rest. He looked great to Metro-Goldwyn and he has been in several pictures since that day. He has played with Joan Crawford, Marion Davies, Greta Garbo and other celebrities in pictures the past two years, and he will be seen in "Coquette" in the next few months.

The moral if there is any, is that Johnny Mack Brown is in the big dough now and going higher all the time—and many times in his life, while he was peddling insurance around Tuscaloosa, he must have thought over and again—about those 5000 bucks that might have been his if—

BODY SENT TO NEW YORK FOR FUNERAL RITES

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—The sports world has lost one of its most colorful and predominant figures in George L. (Tex) Rickard, who died early Sunday at Miami Beach, Florida, of infection following an operation for appendicitis.

Today, the body of the noted promoter, whose early life was one of unfettered romance and whose later years brought him unparalleled success as a master showman, was coming back to the scene of his greatest triumphs aboard a fast New York-bound express.

A beloved and incurable romantic, who retained to the high moments when his vision of "million-dollar gates" came true the same enthusiasm which had stood him in good stead in the days of cow-punching, gold-mining and gambling in the Far West, Rickard met death peacefully in his sleep.

End Is Strangely Quiet

His end came as a strangely quiet contrast to a life crowded with excitement.

When the promoter passed away at 8:37 a. m., Sunday, after being unconscious for two hours, his young wife and a close friend, Jack Dempsey, the former heavyweight champion, stood bowed in grief at his death bed.

After brief services in a Catholic chapel at Miami Beach, the body was placed aboard the "Havana Special" shortly before midnight, accompanied by Mrs. Rickard, Dempsey and Walter Fields, an old friend of the late promoter.

The train is due in New York City at 10:19 a. m., tomorrow. Burial will be at Woodlawn cemetery Wednesday.

The greatest tribute paid to Rickard today was the difficulty men had in even suggesting his possible successor.

Garden in Gloom

Madison Square Garden, monument to his genius as a promoter, was wrapped in gloom for "The Boss," whose office door stood ever open, was loved truly by those in that dominant sports organization.

Rickard's position was unique and autocratic. To the very end, however, when, at the age of 59, Tex had made several millions, he retained that same disarming naivete which carried him through the turbulent days when the West was young and he fought hand-to-hand with trouble-makers in his Nevada gambling place.

Court Battle Over Beach Drilling Seen

Possibility of an impending battle in the state legislature over oil drilling on tidelands in the neighborhood of Huntington Beach and other producing centers in California was pointed out today.

Bitterly opposed under the campaign slogan of "Save the Beaches," the act passed at the last legislature allowing the surveyor general to permit drilling on tidelands probably will be a storm center at this session, it is predicted. Lands involved are largely in the vicinity of Huntington Beach, Santa Barbara and Ventura.

KIWANIS TALK HEARS SPEECH ON ELECTRICITY

SAN CLEMENTE, Jan. 5.—G. H. P. Dellman, lighting sales engineer of the San Diego Consolidated Gas and Electric company, gave a talk on electrical progress to members of the San Clemente Kiwanis club at Travagli's cafe Friday noon. Dellman traced the progress of electricity from 600 B. C. He said that most electrical discoveries were the result of accident and research by scientific men but that commercial progress in the field was due to men with more of a business mind than the scientist.

Harry H. Cavin, cashier of the San Clemente bank, in a five-minute talk, a new innovation of the local club, gave a brief outline on banking. He stated that banking was first practiced in 800 B. C. in Syria but that its real growth came in England in the latter part of the seventeenth century. Banking is built on credit, in fact banking is credit, Cavin told his audience, and then he gave a review of the banking institution in California and how state laws now protect bank investors and depositors.

The musical part of the program was furnished by Mat Mathews, secretary of the Huntington Park Rotary club and song leader of Rotary at its last state convention. Mathews sang, led songs and gave a short talk on service clubs, stating that membership in a service club was better than a university education if the member was a regular attendant at meetings. Peggy Mathews, daughter of the song leader, a radio entertainer from Hollywood, sang several songs, one a duet with her father. Bill Hatch, director of popular music for KNX, Hollywood, rendered several selections. "Pop" Glenn Warner, Stanford Coach and brother of Fred S. Warner, San Clemente judge, was a guest at the meeting. He is spending several days with his brother and his nephew, Hal Warner.

Win Keel had charge of the session. Al May, superintendent of the investigation department of the San Diego Consolidated Gas and Electric company, also was a guest.

'UNCLE TOM'S CABIN' SLATED IN BEACH CITY

BY ISABEL HOLLISTER

LAGUNA BEACH, Jan. 7.—The Little Art theater of Laguna Beach offers as its first winter production, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," under the direction of Wayne Moore. The proposed dates are the evenings of January 10 and 12, with a matinee as well on the 12th. The production will be given in the Little Art theater's present headquarters on the Coast boulevard across from the dance hall in Laguna Beach.

This well loved old story, sometimes called the great American epic, has been adapted for the stage by George Alken. It will be presented in a manner calculated to bring out the heights and depths of this cry against slavery, all the faith of old Tom, of Simon Legree, the desperate courage of Eliza and George Harris, fleeing to the north to escape the torture of slavery.

The Little Art theater has been successful in obtaining a number of the cast of "Robin Hood" to aid in this first winter offering.

Armand Roles, who had the role of Robin Hood, plays Uncle Tom, Sumner Crosby, whose sheriff of Nottingham won the audience from his first entrance, has the role of the Quaker, Phineas Fletcher. Phil Knaggs cracks the whip of Simon Legree. Doreen Pilling has a part in Cassie that suits her histrionic ability better even than Maid Marian. Shirley Burnell is Topsy. Betty Schwankovsky gives Eva a quaint charm.

The sets will be the only modern touch in the whole production. Al Dupont designed and made them.

Old plantation melodies and southern Negro songs will comprise the prologue. It is in charge of Mrs. F. J. Schwankovsky.

Eight cars of navel oranges were shipped by the Eadington Fruit company; four cars of oranges and four cars of lemons by the Bastanchury Ranch company; and four cars of oranges by the Chasmon Ranch company. Other houses in the district shipped approximately 22 cars.

With the market somewhat easier, the shipments have been limited to some extent, it was said. However, the peak of the season's picking will be next week with more than 140 cars of navel oranges anticipated. The navel season is expected to last until February 20, Crawford declared.

Even a thin layer of hard carbon

— as little as 1/32 of an inch — will cause you trouble now

PRE-IGNITION knocking, power loss. Valves held open by carbon chips. Engine wear from gritty bits that grind through it. These are the troubles caused by carbon.

And the coming of high-compression motors has made the condition worse! In new-day engines a dime laid flat on the piston bumps the top of the cylinder—no room for carbon! Carbon comes from burned oil; and oddly enough, even the most expensive oils often form the most carbon. Hard, flint-like carbon, too—the kind that does damage.

Less carbon—soft carbon. A finer lubricant.

When you buy oil now, it is not enough merely to choose a good lubricant.

You should know what sort of a carbon-former it is.

Shell Motor Oil forms only 1/3 to 1/5 as much carbon as the costliest oils; and the little it does form is soft—a kind that blows away through the exhaust!

It is made by a new high-vacuum process—no old-style stills that tend to "scorch" and weaken motor oil. The new Shell process protects it, keeps all its sturdy body and high heat-resistance. Produces a finer, smoother lubricant, remarkably free from the carbon-forming fault so common in ordinary oils.

Carbon deposited in huge quantities by ordinary oil is hard, flinty; it will scratch bearing metal under a finger's pressure!

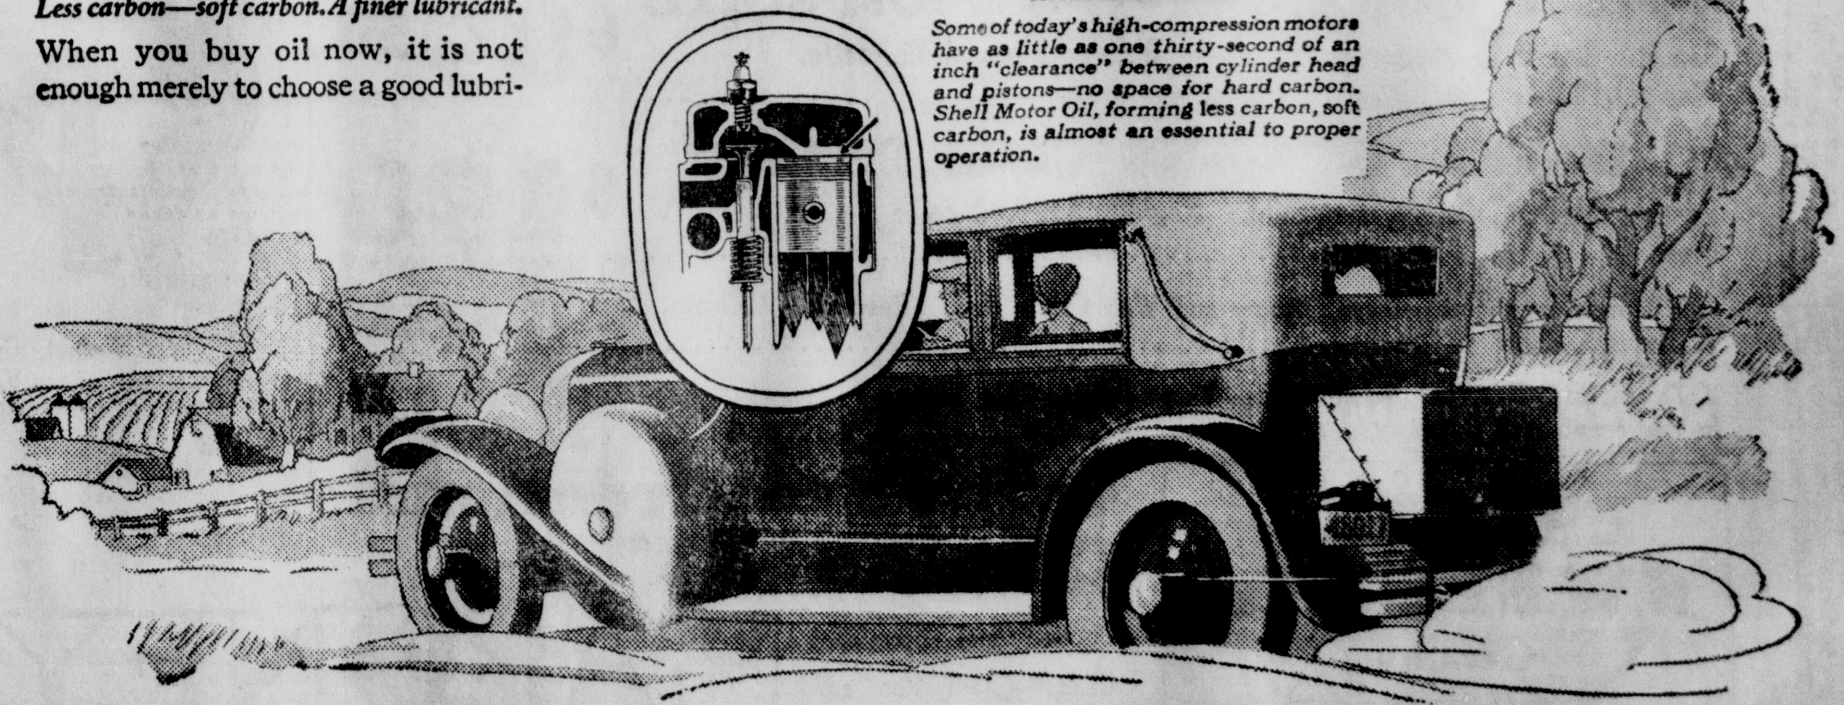

The little carbon that Shell Motor Oil forms is soft, soot-like. Most of it blows away through the exhaust.

Change to Shell Motor Oil the very next time you drain the crankcase. Buy it at yellow and red Shell signs when you need an extra quart.

About modern motors

Some of today's high-compression motors have as little as one thirty-second of an inch "clearance" between cylinder head and pistons—no space for hard carbon. Shell Motor Oil, forming less carbon, soft carbon, is almost an essential to proper operation.

SHELL MOTOR OIL

"Wet" gasolines that contain heavy fractions of petroleum, can't vaporize completely nor burn cleanly. Protect your good oil from gasoline dilution by using Shell 400, the "dry" gas

Glenn Martin To Open Largest Plane Plant In East

SANTA ANA TO MOVE FACTORY TO BALTIMORE

Success of a Santa Ana man who made his first experiments with flying craft in Santa Ana was given emphasis here today with receipt, by friends, of invitations to the new plane building plant of the Glenn L. Martin company, in Baltimore.

The invitation announces the removal of the big plant from Cleveland, O., to Baltimore, Md., with preparations being made for operation of the new factory early this spring.

"A new plant with all new equipment, the largest of its kind on the Atlantic seaboard, will be in operation in the spring of 1929 to take care of the needed expansion of this company," reads the announcement.

Recipients are extended an invitation to visit the new plant at any time.

To many in Santa Ana the announcement recalls the activities of Glenn L. Martin in this city many years ago, when he and his father, C. Y. Martin, were distributors here for the Ford automobile and when the younger Martin built a contraption which he called a flying machine and experimented with it in the fields south of the city.

The first time Martin ever lifted his machine into the air was on a test made in what was known as the McFadden pasture, now a big subdivision on which hundreds of residences have been built south of McFadden street and east of Main street. Later experiments were conducted on land now included in the Eddie Martin airport.

"The largest of its kind on the Atlantic seaboard" tells the story of Martin's success and is entirely within the anticipation of men who have watched the progress of the Santa Ana man in the airplane building field. His achievements in his Cleveland factory have been marked, but it is expected that they will be even greater in the factory he is equipping in Baltimore. The value of Martin and his enterprise to that city is indicated by the fact that the community has given him a large site and other inducements to move his plant from the Ohio city. Baltimore recently voted an $11,000,000 bond issue for the purchase of land for an airport and industrial.

WHERE HOOVER FAMILY WILL SPEND PRE-INAUGURAL DAYS

Beautiful Italian Renaissance home of J. C. Penney, the chain-store magnate, at Belle Isle, Miami, Florida, which will be the home of President-elect Herbert Hoover from early in January until just before his inauguration.

The lower illustrations feature the music room and the private swimming pool.

New President to Vacation In Elegant J. C. Penney Home In Florida

Belle Isle, Miami, Fla., will be the official pre-inaugural "White House of America." This is the simple but elegant home of J. C. Penney, founder of the J. C. Penney company and nationally known agriculturist and stock breeder, which the Hoover family will occupy. It is a three-story white limestone house with overhanging eaves of mellowed apricot-colored tiles, overlooking beautiful Biscayne bay to the south, southeast and southwest and removed at a discreet distance from the Venetian Way boulevard. A road winds through Belle Isle park through many varieties of tropic trees to the handsome home. Adjoining the Penney estate is that of Joseph H. Adams. These estates, together with the Belle Isle park along the road front, are merged by connecting lawns, flower beds and continuous walks into a single lovely unit. Each one of these homes has its own boat landing on the bay, with bathhouse connecting.

Of Impressive Beauty

Aside from several decorative ornaments and a rich frieze running along the main facade beneath the roof tiles, the Penney home impresses the visitor by the sheer beauty of line and mass, without superfluous decorative details. Near the front entrance is a shallow, landscaped pool, where goldfish and water blossoms will afford a gracious diversion in the roadway approach. Southwest of the main house is the trim white bathhouse with small cupola, also suggesting luxury in its simplicity. Workmen are now rebuilding the boat landing and a fishing boat. The Adams houseboat Amite is being conditioned thoroughly for the distinguished visitor. To the south of the home, the swimming pool, lined with small colored mosaics, sparkles in the sunlight. Farther toward the southern tip, across a lawn of graceful coconut palms, is a golf putting green of smooth, close-clipped rye grass. Another lawn of grass divides the Penney estate from the Adams. It is approached by a curving wide

REPORT TAKES UP 50 POSSIBLE DAM LOCATIONS

The comprehensive scope of the tri-counties investigation on the Santa Ana river in co-operation with the state of California was indicated today by a study of the preliminary draft of the report which will be submitted to Gov. C. C. Young by State Engineer Edward Hyatt Jr., after its review by the counties of Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino.

Nearly 50 sites for flood control and water conservation works were investigated and reported on during the Santa Ana river studies. Some of these were alternates and no recommendations for construction were included in the report. The volume merely sets forth what is possible from an engineering standpoint.

"More Obvious" Sites

A summary of the report, prepared by Harold Conkling, chief of the division of water rights, lists some of the "more obvious" sites. These include spreading works at Mentone, estimated to cost $1,100,000; a 4000-acre foot reservoir 178 feet high at Fillera, for conservation and as an aid to spreading of water, estimated to cost $1,700,000; what is termed the Forks reservoir, of 20,000 acre feet capacity, 315 feet high, estimated to cost $8,000,000; channel control near Colton and San Bernardino, estimated to cost $700,000; a reservoir at Prado, estimated to cost $10,000,000 and with a 150,000 or 190,000-acre foot capacity; a reservoir on Lytle creek, near the Turk ranch, of 5000 acre feet capacity, estimated to cost $4,000,000; channel control in the same region, estimated to cost $400,000; a 24,000-acre foot reservoir on the Santiago creek, estimated to cost $1,200,000; and a small improvement in the creek channel to care for overflow.

These projects, the report stated, would be an aid in conserving approximately 33,000 acre feet of flood waters, which are lost under present conditions.

Many Other Sites

Other sites and projects investigated, but which were not included in Conkling's list of the "more obvious sites," are the following: Slide Lake, Hemlock and Mentone, Crafton, Highland, Keen-

SLAPPED A COP

Never talk back to a traffic cop; just give him a good slap. That seems to have been the philosophy of Miss May Abell, of Washington, D. C., who was fined $10 for slapping a capital policeman on the ear when he attempted to stop Miss Abell from driving through fire lines.

STATE SOLONS WILL GET ROAD. SCHOOL FIGHTS

Orange county today had its eyes focused with more than usual interest in Sacramento, where Senator Nelson T. Edwards, of Orange, and Assemblyman Edward Craig, of Brea, were preparing to continue the campaign for inclusion of the Santa Ana canyon road in the secondary state highway system.

Other interests throughout the Southland will watch the movement with close attention, for the scheme has the support of the seven southern counties and also of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Newport harbor area residents also will take a keen interest in developments at the legislative session, for Edwards has agreed to introduce a bill which would make possible the separation of that region from the Santa Ana high school district. The coast section has carried its campaign to the legislature as a last attempt to realize its desire for a separate high school. The Santa Ana board of education has expressed itself as willing to support any reasonable move looking toward this end.

Other measures that Senator Edwards may introduce include a proposal for outlawing solid truck ties from public highways and a bill to create a Newport harbor development district.

BAILEY TO TALK

YORBA LINDA, Jan. 7.—Stockholders of the Yorba Linda Water company will hear Paul Bailey, county flood control engineer, at their annual meeting January 15 in Masonic hall.

Colton, double levee on San Timoteo creek, levee on lower Santa Ana river from Yorba to Fifth street bridge, with a single levee and widening of present channel from the Fifth street bridge to the ocean.

At the Prado site two possibilities were considered, one a 94,000-acre foot reservoir, costing $6,100,000, with channel control estimated to cost $5,000,000; and the other a 190,000-acre foot reservoir at a cost of $10,000,000, which would eliminate the necessity of channel control.

How to Escape FLU

- 1 Avoid so far as possible the places where flu germs are most apt to be; crowded cars; public meeting places; warm, stuffy rooms.
- 2 Be careful of close contact with others and beware of all coughers and sneezers; breathe through the nose.
- 3 Get lots of rest. Eat plenty of citrus fruits. Keep the bowels open. Take every precaution to keep in good physical condition; so your system will have high resistance against germs.
- 4 Above all, avoid catching cold. Any cold may be the forerunner of flu. Take Bayer Aspirin at the first sign of a cold and you can ward it off. Gargle with Bayer Aspirin at first sign of sore throat as this will remove the infection.
- 5 If you have any reason to suspect even a touch of flu, call your doctor.

Delightful Tea Marks
Eightieth Birthday
Anniversary

Mrs. Lucy Whiting's eightieth birthday anniversary was the occasion for a most delightful tea, given for her by her daughters, Mrs. Edith Thatcher and Miss Mabel Whiting, at the Whiting home on East Chestnut avenue one day last week.

The lovely sweet peas that were artistically arranged throughout the home were the same that had been used a few days earlier for the wedding of Miss Edith Thatcher, daughter of Mrs. Edith Thatcher, and Lewis Reark of Los Angeles.

A pretty feature of the afternoon was the presentation of many attractive gifts to the honoree who opened them immediately in order that all of the guests might share in the first sight of the many pretty things she received.

Mrs. Thatcher and Miss Whiting presided at the tea tables when the dainty refreshment course was served.

Those who enjoyed the affair with Mrs. Whiting and her daughters were Mrs. Robert Northcross, Mrs. Belle Hammack, Mrs. George Bond, Mrs. Clarence Bond, Mrs. C. F. Jackson, Mrs. C. W. Leamer, Mrs. Horatio Allen, Miss Ida Mitchell, Mrs. George B. Wiltzie, Mrs. Miller, and Mrs. Walter Footie.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

The Northwest section of the Ladies' Aid society of the First Presbyterian church met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carl Diedericks, 2422 Heliotrope Drive. A large number of members were present.

Mrs. S. A. Jones conducted the business meeting after which an interesting game was introduced. Miss Margaret Gaebe gave several delightful readings.

The other hostesses assisting Mrs. Diedericks were Mrs. S. A. Jones, chairman; Mesdames Lewis Gall, J. L. Stephenson and C. W. Bowers who served delicious refreshments.

William J. Sebastian of the Sebastian Shoe store has left for San Francisco where he will attend a convention of Brown-bliss shoe dealers of the Pacific coast and Nevada.

Birthday Celebrations Mark Week-end In Fine Home

Two birthday celebrations in succession made the week-end a happy one in the Horace Fine home at 1002 North Broadway. The gayeties opening Saturday evening when Mr. Fine himself was made the delighted "victim" of a surprise dinner planned by members of the family conspiring with Mrs. William Schenberg, hospitable "house mother" in the home.

It has been an established custom to celebrate Mr. Fine's birthday each year with a family gathering, but because of the absence of Mrs. Schenberg on a holiday visit in San Francisco and the north, the actual natal date was allowed to pass without any special celebration, so the host supposed the matter forgotten. Therefore the dinner party Saturday was a complete surprise to him.

Each guest added some special dish to the menu, resulting in an unusually delicious birthday feast. Later small tables were placed for cards, and the family "circle was squared" in the most approved fashion, for which Mrs. I. A. Mecham of this city and Norman Raney of Villa Park held high scores and received the attractive prizes selected by Mrs. Schenberg.

Those present in addition to Mr. Fine, Miss Cleora Fine and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lufbery of the immediate family circle, and Mrs. Schenberg, were Mrs. Lottie Grouard, Mrs. Nellie Young, Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Mecham, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lacy, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mock and daughter Charlotte, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Raney, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fine and daughters, the Misses Mary, Margaret and Helen Fine, Mrs. Henrietta Houghaling, Mrs. Eva Songer, Miss Ruth Garney and Franklin Grouard.

Since yesterday was the birthday of Mrs. Schenberg, that event too was celebrated, when a little group of friends arrived last night much to the surprise of the hostess herself. A friendly, sociable evening followed, to be crowned at a late hour by the serving of ice cream and cake.

Planning the affair, whose interest was heightened by a number of pretty birthday gifts, were Mr. and Mrs. William Castler, Mr. and Mrs. William West, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Crum and daughter, Mrs. Eunice Fox and daughter, Miss Mildred Fox, and Mrs. M. Lemon.

Yorba Linda

The Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist Episcopal church met at the home of Mrs. A. C. Pickering on Thursday for the monthly business meeting. It was an all day meeting and luncheon was served at noon.

The report on the bazaar held recently showed nearly $170 made from the affair.

Plans were made to serve the annual dinner of the Yorba Linda Water company, which will be held on January 15 at the Masonic hall.

Recipe for Good Home-Made Children

Recently I received from a mother who says she has used the recipe successfully for 20 years the formula for making good home-made children:

"Take two large measures of parental love. Leaven with a good portion of common sense. Sweeten well with patience. Season with a judicious mixture of praise and censure. Combine with understanding. Apply the above mixture with persistence for 20-odd years for results."

Well, maybe! What bothers me is—what does mother do with her nagel's wings when she starts to pull a slim dress over her haloed head?

TODAY'S RECIPE

Graham Custard Pudding
1 cup rolled graham crackers
2 cups hot milk
3 eggs—separate
5 tablespoons sugar
Few grains of nutmeg and salt
3-4 cup seeded raisins
2 tablespoons melted butter
Custard cracker and bread puddings can easily become a delightful and nutritious dessert if care is taken in the making. This slowly baked custard with its fluffy meringue is a good example.

Roll enough crisp graham crackers to make 1 cupful. Scald the milk and pour over the crackers, crumbs, let them soak for 10 minutes. In the meantime, separate the eggs, reserving the whites for the meringue. Add the sugar, nutmeg and salt to the yolks and beat till thick and creamy. The butter can be put into the hot crackers and milk and allowed to melt that way. The raisins might also be added and allowed to soften a bit.

Combine the egg mixture with the crackers and make in a buttered casserole for 1-1/2 hours. The casserole must be set in hot water and the heat should be kept at 325 F., which means a slow oven. When the custard is baked in individual dishes 40 minutes is the correct time to bake.

MERINGUE BEATEN STIFF
3 egg whites
5 tablespoons powder sugar
1-2 teaspoon grated lemon peel
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Beat the whites to the fluffy stage, add the sugar, a teaspoonful at a time. When well mixed fold in the grated peel and juice, spread over the top and brown slowly for 15 minutes. The meringue heat should not be hot enough to separate the custard; 275 F. is right.

Some 1600 calories will be found in the six portions. These calories are a judicious mixture of all three food divisions. Carefully baked, the custard is a fine food for children or the grown-up just recovering from the flu.

When we think of spices we immediately think of luscious cakes and rich foods, usually sweet foods. There is another side to spiced foods, using the common kitchen-garden spices which lend themselves to making palatable the foods we grow so tired of in winter.

The current leaflet, SPICED GOODIES, covers the high lights in spiced foods. A stamped, self-addressed envelope brings you this leaflet and its numerous recipes utilizing spices.

TOMORROW, Carrot Casserole will be discussed.

ANN MEREDITH.

Bridal Shower Offers Unexpected Feature To Guest Group

When Mrs. Joseph H. Daniger, Miss Lena Thomas, Miss N. Opal Davis and Miss Lida Covert issued invitations to their sister workers in the First National bank, for Saturday afternoon, they complimented Mrs. Santa Marie Wallace, who has presided at the bank's telephone switchboard ever since the new building was first completed, but who recently announced her engagement and approaching marriage to Bernhard Binder, a newcomer to California.

The party was held in the Daniger home at 1020 Kilson drive, where a wealth of exquisite pink and orchid sweet peas had been sent by Mr. and Mrs. Merle Hall, themselves a bride and groom of June. Mrs. Hall was Miss Iva Dilley, formerly of the bank staff.

The guests arrived, each bearing a gift for the honoree, and the "shower" was the first feature of a happy afternoon. But there was a far greater surprise planned by Mrs. Wallace, who, after consulting with her hostesses, had decided to have the wedding ceremony performed at the time when all her friends were gathered together.

The first intimation that the party was more than a gift shower, came with the arrival of Judge Kenneth E. Morrison, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thole and Bernhard Thole of Garden Grove, parents and brother of the honor guest, her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Deese, and her fiancé, Mr. Binder. And then it was only a matter of minutes until Judge Morrison was conducting a most impressive marriage service, and a plain golden band graced the finger of a bride.

Mrs. Binder arrived very recently from Germany and his family with the English language made an interpreter necessary for so solemn a pact as a marriage service, so the bride's father, Mr. Thole acted in that capacity. As a finale to the ceremony, however, the bridegroom turned to hostesses and guests, and made a little talk of appreciation in the English that he means to adopt, that brought tears to the eyes of everyone present, because of its sincerity and the thoughtfulness that inspired its preparation.

It was in this manner that the nature of the afternoon changed, and what had been a friendly shower for a bride-elect became a very charming wedding, complete even to the tossing of the bride bouquet (caught by Miss Virginia Craig) and the towering wedding cake, cut with much ceremony by the new Mrs. Binder. The usual symbols had been placed in the cake, but the only one to make its appearance was the ring that means an early marriage, and it was displayed on the finger of Miss Muriel Jerome.

Mr. Binder has just completed his service as a petty officer in the German navy and has traveled all over the world. He and his bride will be with her parents in Garden Grove for the present, while he continues his study of English and decides upon his future here in the United States.

Friends at the party and unexpected wedding were, in addition to the hostess group and the bride's relatives including her small daughter Diana, Mrs. Hugh Heaney, formerly Miss Grace Was, who celebrated her first wedding anniversary by presenting her tiny infant son to her friends. Mrs. Arthur Angle, Mrs. Jack Bascom, Mrs. Roy Cumpston, Mrs. Verna Anderson, Mrs. Merle Hall, Mrs. Eugene Hitt (Helen Young), Mrs. Marshall Northcross, Mrs. Agnes Proctor, Mrs. Basil Underwood, Mrs. Charles Woodfill, Mrs. Pauline Tyler and the Misses Edna Gammell, Elizabeth Gilmour, Laura Harding, Muriel Jerome, Viola Oliphant, Frances Potts, Charlene Swartz, Mary Woodward, Irene Brown, Virginia Craig, Bertha DeVore, Irene Prosch, Ilse Schultz, Dorothy Booth, Jessie Carter and Mildred Cook.

Santa Ana Couple Are Married at Church Of Flowers

The Little Church of the Flowers was the setting yesterday morning for the pretty wedding of Orvil Lyon and Miss Viola Schmideke, both of this city. The dignified service was read by the Rev. Clifford Cole, pastor of the church.

Miss Schmideke was a very lovely bride in her becoming frock of tan georgette with close fitting hat and other accessories to harmonize. She carried a beautiful bouquet of pink sweet peas and lilies of the valley.

Miss Ethel Chase, who was gowned in blue satin, and Roy Lyon, brother of the groom, were the only attendants.

Immediately following the wedding which was attended by many Santa Ana friends of Mr. and Mrs. Lyon, they left for a honeymoon trip to San Francisco and on their return will make their home in the Bristol apartments, this city.

The bride came to Santa Ana 15 months ago from Wisconsin and since her arrival here has been employed at the Bank of Italy.

Her husband, who is a graduate of the Santa Ana high school, is now manager of the Firestone Tire company in Fullerton. He was formerly connected with his brother who is in the tire business in this city.

Junior Lions to Dance At Ebell Clubhouse On Saturday

Streamers of purple and gold will vie with the sport costume of junior college men and women when the Junior Lions club of the college entertains with a dance Saturday night in the peacock room of the Ebell club house.

The dance will come as the culmination of a week of activities in charge of the Junior Lions club.

Tickets which are being sold this week indicate that the event will be a program dance, as space is provided for the early arranging of dances. The signed programs will later be transferred to attractive cards which are being prepared for the occasion.

Decorations are in charge of Felix Garney, while Leonard Morris and Homer Humphrey are arranging for the entertainment. Other committees for the dance are the reception in charge of Delmar Brown, advertising, Fred Humiston; refreshments, Eric Twist; programs, Omar Williams; and tickets, Terry Stephenson Jr.

Calumit Auxiliary Degree Team Honored

When Mrs. Charles E. Dixon, retiring head of Calumit auxiliary, U. S. W. V., and her floor team motored to Long Beach Saturday night to conduct installation ceremonies for the Ida Saxon McKinley auxiliary, they found themselves greeted as guests of honor at a delightful dinner preceding the evening program, and served at the Breakers hotel.

The Santa Ana degree team was highly commended for faultless work in staging the ceremonial later in the evening, and made a most impressive appearance, for each member was gowned in white, which with the flowers and auxiliary colors in evidence in the decorations, made an effective picture.

Members of the staff were Mrs. Dixon, leader, Mesdames Beulah Deaver, Mabelle Tusker, Eleanor Shaw, Marie Lindquist, Alice Gay, May Glaze, Clo Shewalter and Frances Moulton. They were accompanied by other members of the local camp and auxiliary, including Mrs. Emma K. Wastum, who succeeds Mrs. Dixon as commander of the auxiliary; her new senior vice-commander, Mrs. Elva Hunt, Frank Rowe, commander of the camp, C. E. Dixon, Sherman Glaze, Edward Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Waffie and Mr. and Mrs. William Dubois.

Among announcements of approaching events in Calumit camp and auxiliary, is that of the banquet for outgoing and incoming officers which is to be held in Rose Arbor Inn on Tuesday, January 15, at 6 p. m. Reservations must be made in advance of the date, through Mrs. Dixon, at 1690 R.

Rev. M. J. Binns and Rev. Mrs. J. B. Binns, or however one manages those titles, preach in the same church, London, Sunday morning, and his good wife spreads the tidings in the same pulpit at the evening service.

We are hearing more such stories all the time of husbands and wives working in harness together. And the participants are generally younger couples rather than middle-aged ones. Which means several things; first, that more professions are open to women than ever before; second, that men are becoming less scared, perhaps, of the capable, brainy woman, and that marriages are more apt to be based on similarity of interest than they once were.

"BUT I WON'T DIE"

Nobody ever really believes that he or she will really die. This unoriginal bit of philosophy is revived by the story of the five women who, facing certain death from radium poisoning incurred by painting luminous watch dials, were awarded $10,000 each and the blunt verdict that their days were numbered. But each of the five is continuing to live her more or less ordinary life much as anyone would who suddenly possessed of $10,000, expected to go on enjoying life indefinitely.

They have bought cars and radios, lifted mortgages from homes, taken trips, bought trust bonds and luxuries for their families. A strange thing, this human nature! Powerful and beautiful, too.

T. N. T.

"I Don't Want to Be a Mother," writes one Margery Lawrence in the current "Cosmopolitan," thereby shaking the red rag. She shakes it some more as she continues—"I represent a type of woman increasingly common in the world of today—the frankly non-maternal. I think I may stand as a specimen of all-around normal modern womanhood. And I bluntly declare there is nothing whatever wrong with me, mentally, morally, or physically, in not wanting a child.

"It is not remarkably clever to reproduce your kind, nor does it necessarily alter or improve a woman's character, though, to listen to some of these complacent mothers, one would think that the arrival of a baby must prove a palliative to every ill—an immediate solution to all life's problems!

NO CURE-ALL

"The old idea that a baby was a sort of divine pomade that immediately would spread bland happiness and content over the sore places in life—and glue together two people who were drifting apart!—this idea, futile and stupid and untruthful as it is, still persists with nauseating longevity. "The truth is that a baby is a wedge forcing two people apart fully as often as it knits them together, and it is a nuisance as often as a joy."

As Clowny grabbed the great big bird, the other Tynmites quickly heard a loud and angry squawking. Mister Bird was very mad. It held the fairy in its bill and tried to flap away until it realized it couldn't. "Twas a strong grip Clowny had.

And then the fairy shouted, "Oh! This awful bird has let me go!" And sure enough the bird's queer bill was opened very wide. The pretty fairy flew away and Clowny then heard Scouty say, "Hank on! Don't let the bird escape! You're getting quite a ride." "You bet! I'll try for all I'm worth to bring this mean bird down to earth," said Clowny. "Then we'll punish him and teach him to behave." But, just before they reached the ground the bird jerked quickly all around, and got away. The Tynmites saw it fly into a cave.

Brave Clowny said, "I did my best." The other Tynmites then confessed that he had done a noble thing. "The fairy's safe," said one. "What difference does it really make if he escaped? For goodness sake, you've saved the bold lady who does not even write anonymously, is storing up for herself. The very vehemence of it proves, too, that she knows she's on the defensive, striking back at those who have called her selfish, "unnatural."

She might have proven her point more effectively if, instead of being on the defensive, she had tried to show just how the world needs and uses the childless woman, as well as the mother.

But there's T. N. T. in these pages and we wouldn't want the job of opening the editor's mail for a while!

charming fairy. That's a noble deed, well done."

And then some dwarfs came running near, and all of them began to cheer. "Hurray for Master Clowny. He shall have a dandy feed. And all of the rest can join right in." This made the happy Tynmites grin. Said Clowny, "Thank you very much. Some food's just what I need."

Nearby they found a cookie tree, and shortly picked all they could see. Then off they ran until they found a rapids nice and white. "Now, this is milk," one wee dwarf said. "You all can drink, so go ahead." The little dwarf said, "You all can drink, so go ahead." The little dwarf then danced around and served each Tynmite.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton

© 1929 by NEA Service Inc.

A woman with a nervous high-strung little girl was told by the specialist to whom she had turned for aid: "There isn't much the matter with her except that she isn't old enough to endure emotion. Keep her quiet and away from excitement."

Old enough to endure emotion! Has it occurred to the rank and file of us that we must be "old enough" to stand sorrow or happiness without bad results?

Well, we do—and not only old enough in years but old enough in thought and action than a twelve-year-old child. We are pleased to call such people morons, I believe, but if we were to go into its intelligently there are few real morons in the world.

To go back to the doctor's diagnosis—that the little girl was not "old enough" to endure emotion—there is another side to it.

Has it been our habit to think of emotion, outside of sorrow or of course, as something that must be endured? Does happiness have to be endured? Or love? Or intense interest? Or excitement?

Does hate, or jealousy, or anger have to be endured by the person who generates it as well as the person against whom it is directed?

The answer to all and each of these is "yes."

Happiness wears us out, so does love, excitement, hate, anger—anything and everything that puts a strain on the nervous system whether the sensation be pleasant or the reverse.

That is why children should lead lives as regular, uneventful, and free from emotional strain as possible.

Of course, there is a difference in children. Some are more susceptible to the influence of certain events than others.

The thing to do is to study your children. If you have one who seems to tire after such mild excitement as a movie or even reading a thrilling story, I should divert his, or her, interest into quieter waters still until he is "old enough to endure emotion."

Fred Niblo screened the seventeenth century play upon a lavish nineteenth century scale with a revolutionary Balkan kingdom as the colorful background for the romantic theme.

Nils Asther is seen opposite Miss Crawford and joins with her in giving performances of dramatic power. They are magnificently capable as the strolling gypsy player and incognito prince, and with such players as Allen Pringle, Warner Oland and Cornel Myers in the supporting cast, the screen play brings out some splendid character portrayals.

Revolutions, gay court functions and intimate boudoir scenes supply a world of thrills and suspense in the sparkling production.

YOST'S BROADWAY

"Show Folks" with its glittering picture of back-stage life, attracted picture fans to the Yost Broadway yesterday where it opened a three-days' run.

The picture features such well known players as Eddie Quillen in the role of the "hooper," or in other than stage argot, the principal in a dancing team. His "feeder" is the very personable Lina Basquette whose importance in the act is secondary only in the eyes of Eddie himself. It will be remembered that Lina Basquette was a former star of Ziegfeld's "Follies," and her dancing in "Show Folks" is one of the best things in the picture.

Eddie Quillen is of the famous Quillon family, vaudeville stars, and adding interest to his pictured role, is the fact that he was to be seen in Santa Ana today, and make personal appearances at the Broadway in connection with afternoon and evening performances.

Robert Armstrong played an excellent bit in his character of a revue manager, while the picture also offers Bessie Barriscale and Carol Lombard, with other lesser known players.

Of outstanding interest on the Broadway bill, is the dancing of Filol and her eleven stalwart South Sea Islanders. Their strange native use, island dress and unusual dancing make these act one of the best vaudeville numbers of the winter. The "Siva," a coronation dance, and a sword dance in which weapons that had been used by their ancestors, were featured as was the theme song of "White Shadows in the South Seas."

TELEVISION TO PUT MOVIES IN HOMES

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—Television has placed movies in the home within the realm of possibility.

The first successful broadcasting of ordinary motion picture films—no silhouettes, was done by WFLA, the Chicago Federation of Labor's station. Several listeners, with television reception apparatus, saw the movies on miniature screens.

So limitless are the possibilities of television motion picture films, in the belief of Virgil A. Schoenberg, chief engineer of WFLA, that he hopes to broadcast movie films of President Hoover's inauguration in March, as well as other public spectacles, such as football games and prizefights.

Within a few months, Schoenberg claims, the radio fan may be able to see pictures of public events a few hours after they occur as he now sees them in his neighborhood theater.

Quietus Used On All Types Radio

In an effort to avoid a possible misunderstanding of the advertising message on the Day-Fan Quetus as carried by the Preston Radio company in Thursday's Register, W. M. Clark, sales manager, today stated:

"The message, as written, was directed primarily to Day-Fan owners, as the Quetus is made by the Day-Fan manufacturing company. The Quetus, however, is made to eliminate radio interference, regardless of the make of the set and is equally efficient in all cases."

JUBILEE HOUR IS PROMISED TONIGHT

The long promised Jubilee hour to originate in the New York Columbia studio and to be released

by KFWB and either KMTR or

KPLA, will be broadcast tonight,

from 6:30 to 7 o'clock, coast time, after several postponements.

The nation-wide Columbia network may soon carry a Spanish program, originating in Hollywood, it was revealed today. Although most of the network programs originate in the east, it is pointed out that some of the finest radio talent in the country exists in Southern California—and the time has come when the rest of the nation should be given the opportunity to share in its enjoyment.

RICKARD DEATH IS MOURNED BY SPORTS WORLD

He died in his sleep Sunday.

Mounting the stairs breathlessly, three at a time, Dempsey entered the death chamber too late for a final word with Tex. Mrs.

Rickard stood at the bedside

when the doctor said quietly, "the end has come." Baby Maxine, the promoter's daughter, played on the sandy beach, unaware of the tragedy.

"I have lost the best pal a man ever had," said Dempsey, his broad shoulders drooping. Then, with characteristic vigor the former champion set about taking charge of Rickard's affairs.

He Was Garden Boss

The confusion attendant on

Rickard's passing is incalculable, although behind the promoter was the wealth of millions and on his staff were capable assistants.

He was in truth the main spring of Madison Square Garden corporation and its branching ventures.

Only recently, a new Madison

Square Garden opened in Boston,

its backers borrowing from Rickard's sponsorship as builders seek royalty to lay cornerstones.

Other sports arenas were to follow.

Dempsey already bound in partnership as well as friendship, might step in, but it is doubtful

if conflicting factions in Madison

Square Garden would unite behind the former champion.

There were two turning points in the life of Rickard. The first came when he successfully promotored the Gans-Nelson lightweight championship fight at Goldfield, Nevada, more than 22 years ago. Text put up the largest guarantee ever offered up to that time, and made money.

The second turning point in Rickard's career was announced by Tex one afternoon five years ago, in the shabby offices he occupied in the original Madison

Square Garden. With characteristic nonchalance, he told of his greatest victory. A group of Wall street millionaires had put up $50,000,000 for erection of a new sports arena under Rickard's direction.

Enemies Almost Ruined Him

Rickard had made many enemies, as a man does who climbs

the hard road to the top, and these enemies had all but ruined him a short time before. The details of that intrigue which nearly blasted the promoter's life were sordid and most untimely.

From then on, Rickard rose to a position of autocrat in the world of fistfights. His word was mightier than that of boxing commission of other authorities.

Born at Kansas City, Mo., Jan.

2, 1870, Tex answered to the name of George Lewis Rickard until cow-punching in the Panhandle states made him a sportsman.

Played in the fields and on the golf course, brought him the gaming name by which millions knew him.

In a reminiscent mood, Rickard liked to refer to the hardships of his days in the Yukon, where he towed a 100-pound pack on a sled through waist-deep snow with the temperature 60 below. He liked to chat of his earliest ventures in running a "square" gambling house in Nevada.

"Crooked" roulette wheels and gambling games were not unusual in those days, but Tex made his reputation first as a "square

shooter."

the map." Goldfield is known today solely because of that historic battle.

Four years later, Rickard again made his mark in the field of

WINTERSBURG

WINTERSBURG, Jan. 7.—Mrs. W. P. Truce was hostess at a 12 o'clock luncheon in her home Friday, when members of the Story club gathered for an all day meeting and pot luck dinner. Covers were laid for 12. Mrs. Truce, the hostess; Mrs. D. E. Barry, Mrs. Jack Whitsett, Mrs. B. M. Honold, Mrs. Isabelle Smith, Mrs. Ray Harris and two children, Mrs. Nola Godfrey and son, Arthur; Mrs. Minnie Cox, Mrs. Lillie Burnette, Mrs. Thurston, Mrs. McDonald and Mrs. Latimer.

Mr. and Mrs. Thovenil, of Norwalk, were over night guests Friday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Lopp.

Mrs. E. C. Lopp visited her brother, Albert Archer, who was a patient at a Long Beach hospital. The comedy farce, "The Heavenly Twins," was put on Friday evening in the Oceanview school auditorium by the Westminster Parent-Teacher association under the auspices of the local P-T-A.

The door receipts were $24, being divided evenly between the two associations. Mrs. M. C. Hazard, who is one of the committee in charge of the Mooseheart party to be held by the Mooseheart lodge in Huntington Beach next Wednesday, has secured an airplane ride as the door prize for the evening through the courtesy of the Zenith Midway airport.

Friends of Miss Alice Willmarth, Gardener, Willmarth, Donnelly Murdy and Miss Flossie Draper enjoyed seeing them when here on recent short visits. All of the young people are former Wintersburg residents.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Turner, of San Diego, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cornelius, of Piru, were callers in the homes of friends in the community as they were returning from Tucson, where they had been on a motor trip to visit Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Turner, parents of Jack Turner and Mrs. Cornelius. Mr. Hurdle, of Hawthorne, was a caller in the homes of friends Saturday while in the community looking after property interests.

PLACENTIA

PLACENTIA, Jan. 7.—Mrs. Frank Trendle, of Orangehurst avenue, will be hostess to the Sewing club of Grace parlor, Native Daughters, at an all day meeting Tuesday. A pot luck luncheon will be served at noon.

The first meeting of the year of the auxiliary of the American Legion will be held Tuesday evening. A resume of the past year's work will be given.

As the closing event of a membership and attendance contest between the Girls' Magnify and Junior Fishermen clubs of Calvary church, a dinner was served Friday evening in the church parlors. Because the race between the two clubs was so close, each club shared in giving the dinner, the girls furnishing sandwiches, baked beans and cake, while the boys furnished the ice cream.

The Girls' Magnify had election of officers, the new ones being as follows: President, Dorothy Copeland; vice president, Grace Junkin; secretary-treasurer, Eva Hale; song leader, Norene Henry; organist, Grace Junkin.

"There are two ways of looking at the Bible, either through a telescope or through a microscope," Dr. John C. Page, Bible teacher of Chicago, declared in his first sermon at Calvary church Sunday morning.

Dr. Page will preach nightly in Calvary church for the next two weeks.

"TEX" RICKARD WAS UNIQUE

George Louis Rickard, the great sport promoter, passed away after a comparatively brief sickness at Miami, Florida.

Rickard's name does not appear in "Who's Who." His fame was achieved along other channels than those which insure the author's name being among the immortals, but nearly everyone in America, and possibly the world, knows something more or less of "Tex" Rickard. He was a picturesque character who leaped into fame some years ago in the promotion of a fight in his home city of Reno, Nevada. At different periods of his career he was mining prospector, cowboy, gambler, saloonkeeper, real estate man, fight promoter, and general all round so-called "sport."

"Tex" had what would be commonly spoken of as nerve, taking long chances, and the very chances which he took brought fame to himself and the ones upon whom he took them. Prize fighting reached the height of "big business" through the personality of the staggering purses put up by Rickard.

He was not a man whose deeds are such that parents would desire their sons to emulate him, yet he did emphasize that the world is willing to pay for the highest order in any particular line, and "Tex" Rickard had the qualities of the sport raised to the nth power. It was an illustration of the old truth uttered by Emerson, that if one can make a mouse-trap better than anyone else, the world will make a beaten path to his door.

Rickard joined other men in the erection of the great Madison Square Garden building, and was its president. The fighters, like Dempsey, whose big purses came only because such a man as Rickard had the money and the nerve to put things over, undoubtedly will mourn his loss. No other such man has ever appeared on the horizon of sport. It is doubtful if another such character will soon be seen, and if there is none it will do little harm, if any, to the real cause of high-class, genuine sport.

Mary Garden said the other day she thinks men are superior to women. Mary said it before Christmas, of course.

AN ANNUAL PILGRIMAGE

Yesterday was the annual celebration of the pilgrimage of the admirers of the late Col. Theodore Roosevelt to his grave overlooking Oyster Bay.

Every year a group of men, sometimes numbering 50 or more and sometimes less, pay their respects and honor the memory of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, visiting his grave on the 6th of January, where with simple services they refresh their memory of the fine and strong things which Theodore Roosevelt emphasized. It is well to remind ourselves of the life and devotion of this remarkable man, and we know of no more fitting way to do so than to recall his deeds and his teachings on this anniversary.

Colonel Roosevelt emphasized a thorough-going, red-blooded, wholesome, patriotic, strenuous life. He was an example of the power of mind over matter. Physically weak, handicapped by a serious ailment, he overcame this difficulty by constant labor and regular exercise. He knew the value of time and accomplished as much in his 60 years of life as five or six ordinary men would be able to do. He believed that America had a purpose, and it was the privilege as well as the responsibility of the individual citizen to see that it achieved that purpose.

He was rather given to emphasizing power, and he may have placed too much emphasis on physical power. At the same time merit and justice were the strong appeals to his judgment, and we believe that he today would be leading in the fight for peaceful methods of settlement as he led in other days for preparedness to meet the difficulties in the only way that it was then proposed to meet them.

He had no fear of physical pain or of death. His only fear seemed to be that he would not be found doing his duty every moment of his life. He looked forward with interest, if not with pleasure and anticipation, to the "great adventure." There is no single life which has been given to American activities, particularly to fair politics and statesmanship, from which more can be gained for the up-building of the virtues which inspire patriotism, morals, and the virile life of young men than the history of Theodore Roosevelt.

THE CHINESE MARKET

An article in the current magazine of Wall Street emphasizes the enormous potentialities of the Chinese market as a field for American exporters.

There are 400,000,000 people in China. The vast majority of these people, at present, use almost nothing that does not come from their own vicinity. But the new regime in China, seeking to rehabilitate the country, have great plans for raising its economic level. They are now projecting a $10,000,000 road building program, and hope it will be merely the first step in a general awakening.

It is easy to figure out the tremendous demand for goods that will come if these 400,000,000 Chinese are lifted even slightly in the economic scale. American industrialists who are prompt in cultivating the Chinese field stand to reap huge dividends a few years from now.

GENERAL NOBILE IN PRINT

General Nobile's defense for leaving his companions in the Arctic waste and accepting the first opportunity for rescue would be much better if it came from others than his own pen. We do not see how his own statements of the reasons why he did this are particularly helpful to his reputation.

The story of the former dirigible flight when he was associated with Amundsen reflects no credit on General Nobile, and the story as related by his associates at this time reveals a character who would be likely to leave his companions as did Nobile.

SAVING THE BABIES

The United States is continuing in the good work of cutting down its infant mortality rate, according to Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor. The rate last year—65 infant deaths per 1000 live births—was the lowest in the country's history.

Lest we relax our efforts, however, Miss Abbott points out that no state in the Union has yet succeeded in getting the rate as low as New Zealand, where it is only 39 per 1000. The best record is held by Oregon, with a rate of 48. Idaho and Washington are tied for second with 50, and Nebraska, Minnesota, Utah, Iowa, Kansas, New York, Wisconsin, Indiana and Connecticut follow in the order named.

The lowering of the rate, Miss Abbott reports, is "unquestionably associated with the general improvement in public health, the establishment of child health conferences, the development of parental clinics, the distribution of literature and public education."

Those who entered the talking marathon in New York could choose any subject they liked. What a noble opportunity for the lady who has just had her appendix removed!

THEY ARE STILL UP

At this writing the "Question Mark" is still in the air, and may remain there until the engine wears out, as it shows no sign of giving up. They have now passed the period of their longest expectation, and if records were their object they can make no further ones except to insure that the one they have already made will not be broken for many moons to come.

The whole contest speaks well for American workmanship, for the Wright engine, and for the courage and ability of our army fliers.

"Alas For Those That Never Sing"

Christian Science Monitor

"I hear America singing," sang Walt Whitman. Ernest Bloch, composer, wanted to realize literally the poet's experience. So, writing "America," his tribute, in the form of an "Epic Rhapsody," to his adoptive country, which won Musical America's $3000 symphony prize, he set down for its completion an anthem. "It is the hope of the composer," he wrote on the flyleaf of the score, "that this anthem will become known and beloved, that the audience will rise to sing it, becoming thus an active and enthusiastic part of the work and its message of faith and hope."

But when Bloch's "America" was produced, almost simultaneously, by a half-dozen or more of the leading symphony orchestras of the United States, the audiences failed generally to do what the composer expected of them. Perhaps they were not sufficiently familiar with the music; perhaps they felt it unsuitable that listeners should presume to intrude with their voices into the total scheme of a great orchestra; perhaps Americans are too self-conscious to be a singing people. Whatever the reason, it appears that those performances were most effective in which the audience left the artistic expression to the players and the singers engaged for the occasion.

It may be of interest to survey the disparate behavior of audiences in the various sections of the United States. In New York, copies of the piano score of the anthem were distributed with the program books, and when the choral portion was reached, the people, at a signal from Mr. Damrosch, rose—but they did not lift their voices in song. In Boston, the listeners were not supplied with music or words, nor did Mr. Koussevitzky invite them to take part in the proceedings. Nevertheless, at the Friday concert, a few bold ones rose, and the rest of the audience struggled to its feet in their wake; but the singing was left to the Harvard and Radcliffe undergraduates on the platform. At the Saturday concert the hearers remained in their seats. This latter example was followed by the Chicago audiences.

In Los Angeles, where hearts of men are less fettered by tradition, the vocal score had been distributed to patrons two weeks in advance of the concert. But only a portion of the people actually joined in the singing, and the results, in the words of the Monitor's Los Angeles music critic, "left much to be desired." The most original method, probably, was that followed by Mr. Reiner in Cincinnati, where a chorus of 135 "Mothering-ers" was placed on the stage, and another of 1000 pupils in the gallery. Here, instead of singing, the audience was so moved emotionally that, to quote the Monitor's reviewer, "throughout the last five minutes, applause, cheering and shouts of 'Bravo' made the music almost inaudible."

Presently, when the tumult and the shouting have died away, the people will be in a position to decide whether it is best that they should join with their orchestras in such a patriotic manifestation. In the meantime, whatever their verdict, they will appreciate the courtesy of one of America's adopted sons in giving this musical expression to his gratitude.

We Cannot Wisely Bind the Future

San Bernardino Sun

There existed once in the mind of a loyal citizen of Venice, then a city of itself, but now a part of Los Angeles, a vision of Italian gondoliers singing in the dusk of evening as they poled their gondolas along the winding canals of that very new American city. So he donated canals to the city and made their perpetual use as waterways a condition of the gift. But the day has come when the people of Venice no longer want canals through their streets, either for the use of mosquitos, so gondolas or as breeding places of them, but the court they decided to make waterways they must remain, decided otherwise, and solved is what use can be made of them and still have them legally classed as waterways. No definition of that word was given by the court. Perhaps a simple six-inch water main running down the canals would be construed to make them waterways. If so, they could be paved and made beautiful sunken gardens, the water being used for growing gladioli instead of rowing gondolas. Even a sewer pipe is a waterway, actually if not legally under the terms of this gift. But gardens are better than sewers, and flowers more beautiful than an uncovered sewer pipe. Gifts in perpetuity, with strings tied to them, exist in almost every town in America, and some of them, like these canals, have long since ceased to be what their donors intended. Times change and we change with them. What we want today is passed tomorrow. We have small need for the home drinking fountains given in perpetuity to so many towns. In St. Louis a fund for relief of emigrants in transit is piling up and no emigrants to give it to and the courts will not do anything about it except approve the salary and expenses of the trustees. Somewhere in such gifts discretion should be left to somebody to adapt the gifts to changing conditions. We can never wisely bind the future.

THE SAIL FISH

The shark, the grampus, and the whale
Must lustily ply fin and tail

When there is need for them to roam
Beyond the confines of their home.

The crab must creep, the lobster crawl
The oyster cannot move at all.

The sail-fish on the other hand
Can run or reach from strand to strand

And though the breakers foam and spout
Can luff or jib or come about

Or take his mains'l in and ride
Serenely on a quiet tide.

This happy creature moves at ease
About the world surrounding seas

Exerting not the slightest force
To bear him on his charted course,

While all the other fish that swim
Incontinently envy him.

But yet ashore as in the seas
Some creatures have been born to ease

And past their plodding neighbors whizz;
It isn't right; it simply is.

Dr. Frank Crane's Friendly Talk

By Dr. Frank Crane

BIGGER AND BETTER FLEAS

There are two great theories that have largely influenced the thinking world. One of them is the theory of evolution, that all things are growing and the principle of growth is behind all life and is responsible for what amount of perfection there is in the universe.

The other idea was expressed in Benjamin Kidd's Social Evolution. It was that the fixed norm that controlled evolution was not in the past but something in the future. As Tennyson says, "Some divine far-off event to which the whole creation moves."

Dr. Milliken's recent experiments show that from a scientific point of view the world is still in process of creation. So the world will go on from age to age moving toward that perfection that is the aim of us all.

Dr. Conklin, head of the biology department at Princeton University, says that the evolution of mankind is at an end. Changes in the past have come about by an alteration of the physical environment in which men have lived.

Now, man has largely mastered physical environment. If it gets colder, he turns on more steam and gets the woolen pajamas out of the moth-balls. He doesn't have to grow thicker hair to keep him from freezing.

When one kind of food gives out, his teeth and stomach do not have to undergo a change. His chemists change the new food to fit his old digestive system.

Civilization and intelligence are keeping him from having to become physically something different. Here we are on the top of the heap, physically what "homo sapiens" has been coming to for aeons. It is comforting but relatively unimportant.

Physical evolution can stop without disturbance if mental and character evolution continue. "Man" is taken from the Sanskrit and means "thinking animal." Thinking is the chief claim to greatness by mankind.

On the shores of the Baltic Sea a German professor picked up a piece of amber and found in it the world's oldest flea. According to his calculations it had been buried there for approximately 300,000 years. In 300,000 years fleas have become bigger and better only by obtaining sight, for on a careful examination of the world's oldest flea it was found to be precisely like modern fleas except for one thing. It had no eyes.

So fleas keep on improving. They are to be congratulated. Bigger and better fleas arrive by physical development alone. Bigger and better men come by another path, a path of mental and spiritual change and growth.

Thoughts On Modern Life

SOME MEN WE NEED

"What this country needs," said the late Thomas Riley Marshall, "is a good five cent cigar."

All of us, at times, indulge in expressions of opinion about "what this country needs."

Here are some of the types of men that seem to me important for the future of the nation:

Journalists with a Platonic passion for ideas and a Wellsian range of information and interest.

Ambassadors who are appointed on account of their mind instead of their money.

Scientists who range with open eyes, avid minds, and an acute sense of social values through the basic sciences, especially the living sciences of biology and psychology and the social sciences of sociology and political sciences.

Business men who see their business as an organic part of the social process of their time, not as a mere matter of buying low and selling high.

Politicians who, although adept in the practical tricks of the trade, are altogether cynical of squirrel-cage politics that so often prevail, and think it the business of statesmanship to bring knowledge and power into a working partnership.

Financiers who think that banking is more than money lending, that when the modern banker rises to the nobler conception of his job he may become a kind of impresario of the productive energies of his time, a co-ordinator of the team work of his fellow men.

Educators who seek to strip education of the sterile pedantries of mere picture puzzle scholarship and make it the research magnificence, an adventure in making our sons and daughters intelligently at home in the modern world, enabling them to work in harmony with the creative forces of their time instead of at cross purposes to them.

It is good now and then to try to set down our ideals for our public servants.

If we could order for prompt delivery at various strategic centers in our national life a hundred of the above types of public servants we might write a new chapter in civilization during 1929.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

"IF ONLY"

We are all so wise afterward. When a mother finds a child has failed in any way she usually blames herself. "If only I had done this. If only I had said that. This thing would never have happened."

You don't know. Mothers say and do what they think is right at the time—but that is only a may-things hidden from them which, had they known, might have changed the action or the word at the time—but that is only a may-be. We always think backward in terms of what has happened forgetting that at the time things were far different.

Regretting what has passed is a waste of time and energy. The best thing to do is to sit down in a quiet corner and think it over. See where you might have done better—maybe. Draw from the event the lesson of wisdom that experience ought to distill for each of us and then proceed forward, stronger for the experience.

There are some people who do not profit by experience. "I gave him a good spanking but it didn't do a bit of good." And then she spanked him again next time.

"We sent him to a military school in the hope that the training there would help, but it hasn't. Not a particle." Then he goes back to the same school next term. One ought to take stock of experiences. Put them to work.

The worst regrets arise after a troublesome child dies. All the scoldings, all the punishments, all the tears of the trying days rise up in memory magnified beyond all proportion and torment the grieving parents.

Let the regret go. Turn from it the moment it rises and set to work. Remember that memory plays queer tricks with us. All the good is a resplendent good, far beyond any that we really experienced. All the trouble we have had was grievous trouble and there was none like it ever before in this world.

It isn't true. Let the past go by. Dwell on the joy you have known with the child who has gone on and let the regrets go by. If they rise to trouble you in the still hours of the morning, light your lamp and read some cheering word and take comfort to yourself. Time heals all wounds.

If now and again you are tempted to sit and brood, to sigh and say "If only," remember that the time furnished its own answer. You did what you COULD do. What you are thinking about now is what you could do today—maybe—and that is a very different thing.

After all we live day by day. The day we have is our own and there is none other certain. Let the regrets go. Look ahead. Keep busy. A growing child leaves no time for regrets if you live along with him. And that is the very best way.
